WE LOOK TO HIM FOR GUIDANCE

Dear P.D.
You're a great perfect kid and I think you make a swell team with good luck - P.D.
Jim Q. White?

Fifteen years ago Mr. A. E. MacQuarrie presented diplomas to the first senior class of Washburn High School. Throughout the years our principal, who has done his utmost to make Washburn one of the best high schools in the city, has not lost his youthful viewpoint. Mr. MacQuarrie believes that well trained, healthy bodies are as important as educated minds if young people are to build a firm foundation for later life; therefore Washburn continues physical education through the senior year. To further interest in the National Honor Society, Mr. MacQuarrie went to San Francisco this year to address a national convention of school administrators.

WE, the staff of the 1942 Wahian, dedicate

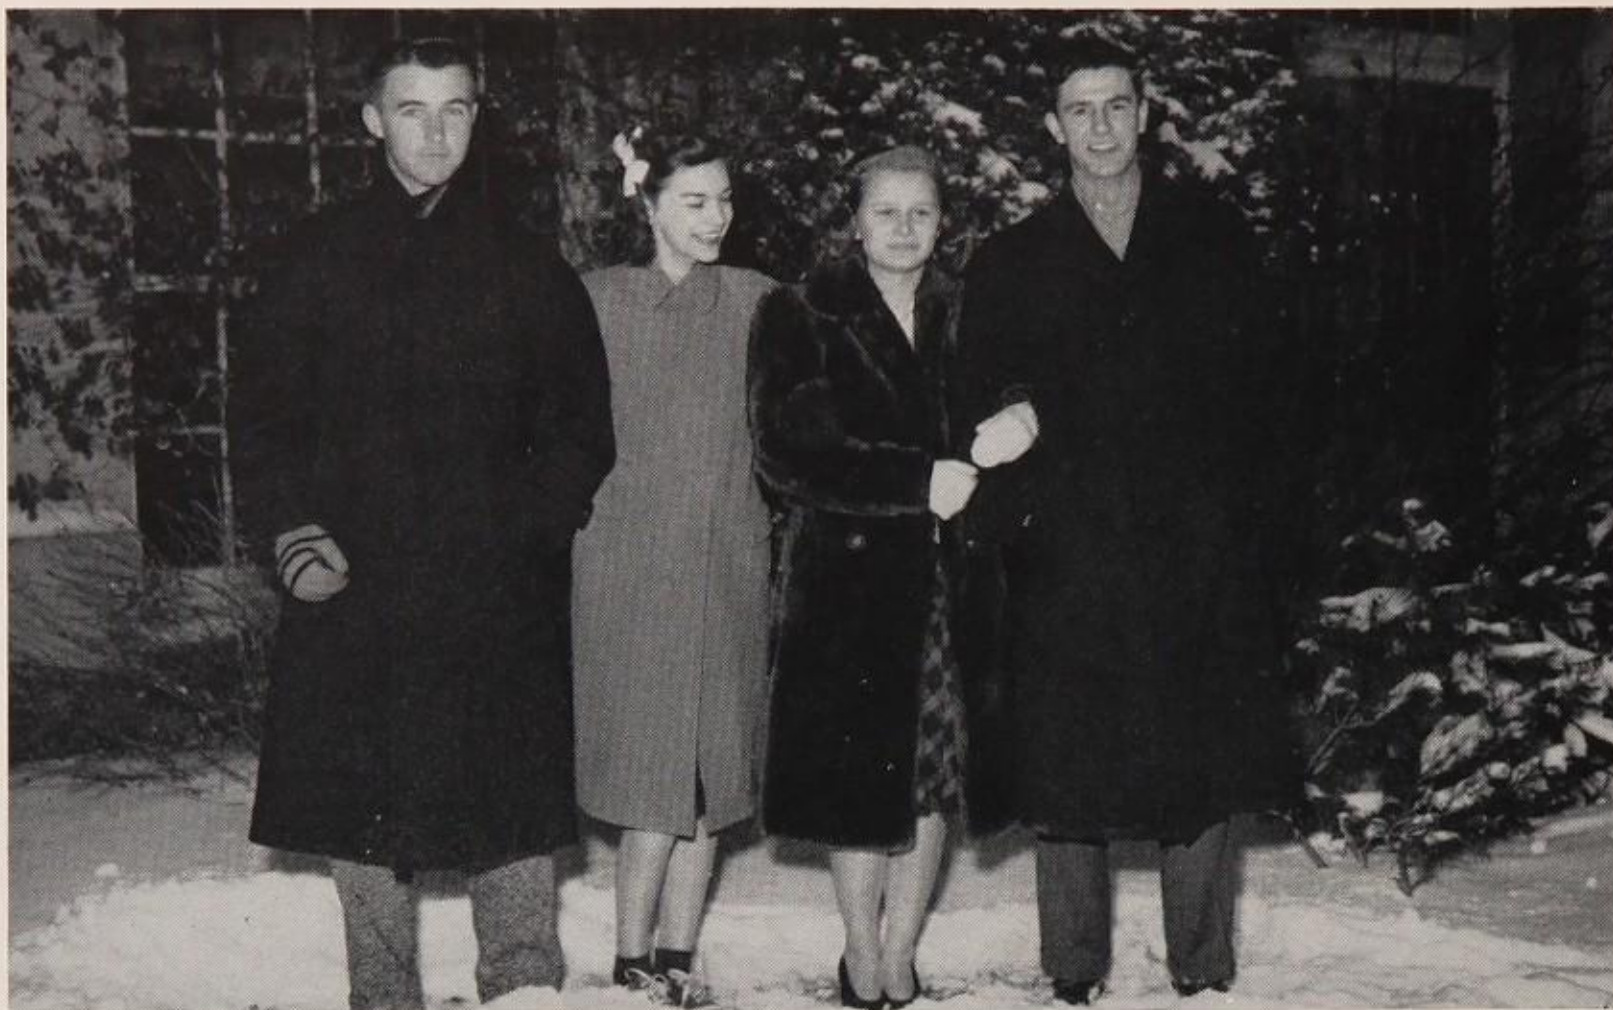

January and June graduating classes. . . . Our theme,

“Accent on Youth”, is based on the conviction that beneath the "happy-go-lucky" attitude of high school students today there is the ability to assume the larger responsibilities which they must face.

JERRY REMOLE, President; MARGARET KIMPEL, Secretary; EMMY LOU HELLIE, Vice-President; GALE WARREN, Treasurer.

January Graduating Class

• Although the January Class was small, it had some very active members. The students of this class had a high scholastic record. Many are planning to further their education at universities and colleges throughout the country. Jim Nichols received an appointment to Annapolis; many others have entered defense work. Among these are Roy Blankenhorn and Charles Wilson who have answered the call of their country.

Their class play, "June Mad," starred Catherine Page and Eddie Johnson. From this success, the class raised enough to buy, as their memorial, four radios to be used in the classrooms. For a time they were undecided as to whether or not they should buy defense bonds to supply a fund for needy graduates in the future. However, they decided to buy radios. Washburn will always remember the January Class of 1942.

• "The Importance of Being Earnest" by Oscar Wilde, was chosen as the June '42 class play because it was so well suited to the talents of the 12A class and because of the zip in the plot, so necessary for a successful performance. "Perky" Hemenway, Ruth Otterstein, George Dauphine, and Bob Wright won the four main leads. The supporting cast consisted of "Billie" Lewis, Walter Carpenter, Grayce Norton, Bob Brin, and Virginia McClure.

Although the play was originally written as a period play, it has been rewritten and modernized. A good example of this modernizing was Ruth's and Priscilla's "catty" scene. Sugar was the subject of the spat, and the discussion of this priority was definitely up-to-date.

The story, which concerns a case of mistaken identity, was very unusual in that the four main leads were equally important. Over one hundred members of the senior class enthusiastically turned out for the preliminary try-outs. Of these, about twenty-five remained in the finals. It was only after much deliberation that the nine characters were finally chosen.

• "Tin Pan Alley" was the theme of the very successful 12A Mixer. All of the members of the class who wished, dressed as songs. Patricia Luft as the "Irish Washwoman," Bette Kiebert as "Flat Foot Floogie," and Richard Stillson as "Big Bad Knute" were chosen as the most originally dressed. Covers of popular songs, balloons, and posters were used for decorations. Everyone agreed that it was "oodles of fun."

LOOK OUT FOR RAIDERS

AIR RAID PROTECTION

Flash! Washburn Prepares for Defense

• Washburn is attempting to do its part in national defense. Early last fall we started our efforts with an aluminum collection. Later in the year we had a "Book for Buddy Day." Some of those students were so anxious to contribute the kind of books desired that they gave their own mathematics or civics books. In order to secure money to buy air raid equipment such as a stretcher, shovels and pails, we had a paper sale.

In case of an air raid we hope to have our students safe. Each one, when the siren is sounded, is to go immediately to his locker, open it, and stand facing the door. We have had several drills of this kind, and they are carried out with complete silence.

The senior class' armed service committee has made an effort to make an active file of all the alumni in the armed service. They also have a scrap book of newspaper clippings entitled "Fighting Alumni," about the alumni. This committee's work will be carried on next year.

The Flags Girl Reserve Group and the Sparks Hi-Y are selling defense stamps.

Everyone at Washburn is cooperating in helping our country to win the war.

IN Washburn's numerous extra-curricular activities every student is provided with ample opportunity to develop his or her special interests outside of regular school hours. The various language clubs, science clubs, athletic and dramatic organizations, Hi-Y and Girl Reserves, all enrich our school life.

Dear Betty Jean,
 I wish I had known you better

 had fun in the last year. I hope we can go on with it.

Representative Government

Row One: Strohmeier, Otness, Hawkinson, Zimmerman. • Row Two: Stark, Appel, Heywood, Durrell. • Row Three: Hurd, McKinlay, Mr. MacQuarrie, Sutton, Leighton.

• One 10B and one 10A student, two 11B and two 11A students, and three B seniors and three A seniors are elected each semester by the boys and girls in their respective grades to make up the student council. This term Jim Stark and Bob Appel were chosen by the sophomores, Peggy Strohmeier, Dick Leighton, Dick Durrell, and Helen Hawkinson were members from the junior class, and Dorothy Otness, Gordie McKinlay, Bud Hurd, Paul Sutton, Curt Heywood, and Mary Lou Zimmerman represented the seniors. To maintain a membership of twelve, three members from the B class are elected to replace graduating seniors.

It is chiefly through the student council that the students obtain a voice in school administration. Mr. MacQuarrie discusses various problems with the faculty at their Monday morning meetings and then calls these problems to the attention of council members at meetings held regularly on each Tuesday morning at eight, and at any other time when the need arises. Mr. MacQuarrie compares their ideas and suggestions and then acts accordingly. They also confer on possible auditorium programs, mixers, approve awards that are to be made, and lately have handled many of the defense plans. Thus the student body is given a democratic method of representation. The only officer is secretary Mary Lou Zimmerman, and the reports of council activities have been kept in a special book for that purpose for many years.

The members of the student council may be elected to a life membership upon their graduation by a vote of the other members. This membership entitles them to attend free of charge all mixers, class plays, and other school activities at Washburn, and to be notified of each.

National Honor Society

• Only students in the upper one-fourth of their class in 11A and 12B are eligible for National Honor Society. Members are chosen by the vote of the teachers and the eligible students who judge the pupil on his qualities of leadership, character, and service as well as scholastic ability. Students elected may become life members upon their graduation providing they maintain the standards required to admit them as long as they are in Washburn. This year the National Honor Society's membership in Washburn has passed the one thousand mark. Some special celebration is being planned to commemorate this event. The ideals of this organization give students something to strive for, promote high scholastic averages, create the desire to be a leader, and develop a fine character.

STUDYING HARD?

Service To Our School

Office Board

• The Office Board is made up of all the regular clerks and girls, usually those taking a commercial course, who assist them, getting real office practice at the same time. These girls learn how to operate the switch board and adding machines; they help check attendance and call absentees' homes; they sort mail, cut stencils, and in general become better acquainted with the methods of running an office. The girls work during their study periods, and thereby have an excellent opportunity to apply their knowledge of typewriting and shorthand as well as to gain valuable practical experience. With their help the office is run efficiently and smoothly despite the dozens of varied requests made upon them every day.

The Office Board is under the capable direction of the clerks, Miss Lund, Mrs. Brooks, Miss Montman, and Miss Zollars. The girls do an excellent job of running the office with efficiency.

Library Board

• Washburn can be very proud of its splendid library. Under the supervision of Miss Margaret E. Brown the students are able to secure the material necessary for their school work.

The library board consists of selected students, who, throughout the day assist Miss Brown in various jobs, such as filing, collecting fines, and typing. They were in charge of the Victory Book Drive.

This year work of the library has been carried on without a regular assistant. Mrs. Marion Stiles comes one day a week.

The spring officers are: Evelyn Whitesel, President; Alice Stefferud, Vice-President; Virginia McClure, Secretary. The meetings are held in room 105 where a discussion is carried on by the board.

Silver and Blue Tri Cabinets

• Both the Silver and the Blue Tri-angle revolve about their cabinets. It is there that all the plans for their following activities are made. The Blue Tri Cabinet is made up of the officers chosen to head Blue Tri, the group presidents, and cabinet representatives. The Silver Tri is composed of the head officers of the Silver Tri, group presidents, and a camp representative.

The Blue Tri cabinet is divided into seven different divisions. This enables the cabinet to accomplish its work in a swifter and surer way. The A.B.C. tests and placing of the new girls in the various chapters is the job of the membership committee. The putting out of posters and notices is the publicity committee's job. The finance group has charge of dues and the budget, and the service group is in charge of selling and ushering. The social committee has charge of the theme and decorations for teas and banquets. The program division plans the group discussions and activities. The devotions for the joint meetings are planned by the worship group.

A faculty adviser and a counselor from the Y.W.C.A. also assist. Once every month the president of the cabinet and the Inter-City Council representative attend a meeting at the Y to talk over city-wide problems with representatives of other schools.

The Silver Tri cabinet operates almost the same as the Blue. They make the original plans for the large parties and give suggestions for group discussions and speakers. The committees are similar to those of Blue Tri, and they too are represented on the Inter-City Council.

The officers of the Silver Triangle cabinets are: Betty Ann Tritle, president; Carolyn Cory, vice-president; Laura Lee Snedeker, secretary; Dorothy Bremicker, treasurer; June Thomson, I.C.C.

The officers of the spring Blue Tri Cabinet are: Ann Taylor, president; Charlotte Fischer, vice-president; Margaret Currier, secretary; Alice Stefferud, treasurer; Natalee Carlander, I.C.C.

Blue Triangle Girl Reserves

• This club not only provides wholesome entertainment, but it also develops good citizenship, leadership, and co-operation in its members. Girl Reserves is a service club and devotes its time to the planning and executing of plans to aid others. The purpose of the club is to "face life squarely and to find and give the best." The Blue Triangle is composed of Girl Reserves from the 11A and 12th grades, and any girl who will carry out the purposes of the organization is eligible for membership. Then if she passes a test on the history and code of the Girl Reserves, after studying the A B C book, she is accepted and placed in one of the five chapters. There are two groups, one joint, and one cabinet meeting every month. The group meetings are held at girls' homes as often as possible. During the year the Blue Tri members help by ushering for school events, selling candles, and with the aid of the Hi-Y they plan the Thanksgiving and Lenten services.

A mothers' and daughters' tea and style show was given in the spring. It helped to familiarize the mothers with the activities of Blue Tri and acquaint them with the members of the faculty who direct it. Sigma Phi, whose president is Dorothy Tauer, made scrapbooks for soldiers this year. Selling candles was one of Magnets' projects; their president is Mildred Derse. Sara MacMichael is president of V.O.S., and they are making a scrapbook of the projects and programs of all the clubs in Washburn.

FLAGS

• The Flags, with Gwen Gilbert as president, helped the Sparks Hi-Y club sell defense stamps at noon in the lunch room. The first meeting in the spring was a tea to welcome all the new members into Flags. Mr. Carlson spoke at one meeting on "Friendships, Comradeships, and Relationships." Miss Margy Ingalls was the speaker at another meeting; she spoke on Girl and Girl Relations. The devotions during the meeting help to further the appreciation the girls have for Girl Reserves.

STIRRUPS

• Making scrapbooks for the crippled children in the Gillette Hospital was the project chosen by Stirrups; Nancy Main is their president. Their first meeting was to welcome the new girls. Miss Neel spoke on family relations for one meeting, and a representative from a local beauty shop spoke at a joint meeting with Magnets, on "Charm and Personal Appearance." Other speakers at meetings have been Mr. Smith and Miss Kay Horning, who is from the University. Stirrups' project last fall was making blankets for doll beds to help the American Legion.

Silver Triangle Girl Reserves

• The Girl Reserves of the 10B and 11B grades make up the Silver Triangle. Divided into seven groups, each group has its own purpose which they work on in their separate meetings. The chapters elected new presidents for the spring semester. R.A.S., whose president is Connie Auld, has Miss Montgomery for an adviser. The president of E.T.C. is Patty Carlson; Mrs. Basford is their adviser. Miss Laird is the adviser for Stags and Carolyn McLean is president. The Torcherettes'

Irene Raihle is president of Dico's and Miss Goode is the adviser. Some of their activities concern relief, money for worthy causes, and international talks.

On April 15 the Silver Tri sponsored a "Spring Frolic." This spring party for the girls was held at the Y.W.C.A. Dancing, bowling, swimming, and playing shuffleboard and ping-pong were only some of the many activities offered to the girls. Mr. Peter Olson, a well known recreation worker, led the folk-dancing and taught many new steps. He was in charge of the games too, and saw to it that every one was kept busy. The A.F.S.'s sold candy and gave the money they earned from this to the Red Cross.

Many of the clubs are helping with Red Cross sewing during their meetings, and the Stags are collecting tin cans for defense. All the chapters are having speakers and group discussions on boy and girl relations, date etiquette, social conditions, science, literature, and the arts.

At the beginning of the spring term Mrs. Walter Haight exhibited the collection of buttons which she started when she was a small child. Mrs. Muggett showed movies and told the girls about youth hostels in Minnesota and Wisconsin at another joint meeting.

On March twelfth and thirteenth the first All-City recognition service was held at the Y.W.C.A. This service was planned by the Girl Reserves from every high school in the city. The women who head this department at the Y helped the girls arrange many of the details. Helen Hawkinson gave a short talk as did Donna Anderson. Betty Lou Sogard sang the "Lord's Prayer." A prayer was given by Betty McLean.

The first big meeting every spring and fall is for membership. The installation of new officers is held at the end of the semester. In between these two meetings, one big party is held. Sometimes it is a mothers' and daughters' tea, often a fathers' and daughters' banquet. This spring, however, the "Spring Frolic" was planned just for the girls. To enable them to accomplish more, there were fewer of the large group meetings this year.

Mrs. Rath, formerly Miss McKinnon, and Miss Gladys Williams are the girl reserve advisers from the Y. They aided with the plans for the all city dance given last fall. A roller skating party given in the spring was for the benefit of Lyman Lodge, the girl reserve camp on Lake Minnetonka.

Silver Tri meetings are held at the girls' homes whenever possible. Generally the hostess plans the refreshments and each girl pays a nickel. The secretary of every club turns in the copy of her minutes to Mrs. Basford who sends them to the Y so that a complete record may be kept.

The Girl Reserves are also doing their bit in the present war emergency. One of the clubs is knitting for the soldiers and sailors, while another is selling defense stamps at the lunch period with one of the Hi-Y's, and several other clubs are doing their part in the present emergency by saving paper, aluminum, and other scarce commodities.

Girl Reserves and Hi-Y's Sponsor Lenten Services

PLANNING THE SERVICES

• Every year, just previous to the Easter vacation, the Hi-Y and the Girl Reserves have jointly sponsored a series of three Lenten services.

These services are usually held at St. John's Church as its location makes it convenient for the students to attend before school.

The theme of this year's services was "The Rebirth of Freedom." The Rev. Homer J. Armstrong addressed the first session, the next was an all musical program, and the series concluded with a program conducted entirely by the students.

The purpose of these services is to add a religious touch to the activities of both groups and prepare the students for the religious events of the Easter season.

• Each Tuesday night Washburn's biggest all-boy organization, the Hi-Y, holds its meetings at the different members' homes. The Hi-Y at Washburn is comprised of nine clubs that average about twenty fellows from the junior and senior classes.

During the course of the year, the different clubs benefit the school and the community through their various service projects.

To bring all of the clubs into closer contact with each other is the purpose of the all Hi-Y cabinet. This is composed of the president and one other officer from each club. They, in turn, elect the all Hi-Y officers, plan the membership campaign, and make all of the arrangements for the joint meetings.

In each club the members elect four officers who conduct the order of the business of the club and maintain order throughout the meetings.

The Hi-Y is bound closer to the school through faculty advisers, who aid in counseling the boys in many of their activities. The Y.M.C.A. also provides a leader for each club, who helps to keep the club running smoothly. In most cases they are young business men who have themselves been active in some sort of Y work.

During the course of the year each club has several parties of its own along with the two all Hi-Y parties which come once in a semester. The all Hi-Y parties climax the social program and are usually held at Camp Iduhapi.

The Hi-Y at Washburn is sixteen years old. It began in the year 1926 when the S.T.O. was formed for the purpose of benefiting the school and community as its name "Service to Others" suggests.

Since that time, eight more clubs have been added to this trail blazer. Today, as in 1926, the Hi-Y's are doing the same sort of work; for example, they are supplying the soldiers in army camps with amusement, seeing that the halls are free of students during the lunch periods, equipping the new students with booklet guides of the school, and many other similar projects.

The prospective members of Hi-Y at the beginning of each semester are put through a period of training, at which time they are required to fulfill a series of requirements to prove that they are sincerely interested in becoming a member of this organization.

For those who are successful in their training session, there comes an induction ceremony at which time they promise to "strive to create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian character throughout the school and the community." At this meeting they are also given their pins. The pin consists of a white cross surmounted on a blue field in the middle of a red triangle which, in turn, is incased in a gold ridge. In the meetings which follow, each new member will receive his guard which is given him by his club treasurer, and which symbolizes that particular club.

Many of the Hi-Y chapters give Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets to families that need help. The clubs also unite in selling Christmas trees for the purpose of sending some less fortunate boys into the Y.M.C.A. camps.

This year the Hi-Y has taken to the patriotic service of selling defense stamps. The Sparks was the group that first started this patriotic service.

The 1-9 group, through the sale of Christmas trees, is offering to underprivileged children scholarships for two-week periods at Camp Iduhapi. They have $111.00 in their scholarship fund now. Last year, the 1-9 sent seventeen boys to camp, but a check of this year's records shows that as many as thirty boys may be taken care of this year.

THE TRIANGLES MEET

During the summer vacation the Hi-Y's also carry out another one of their various activities. This activity is the Hi-Y training camp to which each club sends at least two representatives. The period of this camp is from August 30 to September 5 at which time the fellows learn how to become better leaders.

Out of the Hi-Y dues, which are usually about $3.00 a semester, many things must be paid for. The biggest item is, of course, the all Hi-Y parties. Other expenses are the individual club parties, the world friendship fund, and the Christmas baskets.

A very popular spot about the corridors of Washburn is the Hi-Y bulletin board which is on the wall where the gymnasium is closest to the office. Every Tuesday the secretaries of the various clubs post the time and place of their meetings here so that members of the club may be informed.

Rosenbloom, Grosvenor, Harker, P. J. Anderson, Schneider, Herhold, Geelan, Wheaton, Wilson.

• The Wahian crew consists of the editorial staff advised by Mr. Claeson, the art staff advised by Miss Trowbridge, and the business staff advised by Mr. Fleenor. Arline Steiner and Hugh Kremer are the co-editors-in-chief of this year's annual, Betty Jane Andersen and Helen Harrington are the art staff co-editors, and Bil Reiser is the manager of the business staff. This year marks Washburn's seventeenth birthday and the theme "Youth," appropriately enough, carries out the idea. The business staff and the great number of students who purchase books are responsible for the fact that we do not need outside advertising to publish our annual. The business staff also has charge of the publicity angle.

The art staff's first job is to draft a rough copy in loose leaf form showing how the pictures and copy will be spaced. When it has been approved, another copy is made and sent to the editorial staff. The members of the editorial staff named their draft "Horatio" this year. Planning picture schedules, arranging for photographers, and writing copy are only some of the many jobs of this staff. There are many problems in the publication of a year book, but each year it is published on time. Last year's Wahian with its theme of "Life" was rated as one of the six best in the country.

THE WAHIAN STAFFS AT WORK—

Pace Setter If Not Pace Maker

• The Grist staff, under the able supervision of Miss Dowling, is made up of students who show unusual interest and ability along the journalistic line while taking News in 11B. (It is also a well known fact that these same News classes help the staff out every once in a while when they find themselves short of material.) Students all begin as reporters, and if any special talent is noticed, they may be promoted as time goes on. The Grist never fails to live up to its slogan: "Pace Setter if not Pace Maker," and for the past many years has rated as All-American.

The editorial staff makes the various assignments on different school activities, proof reads, plans the page layouts, and composes suitable headlines for all the stories. The first page staff, under the jurisdiction of the Editor-in-Chief (John Knutson, first semester; Jack Garske, second), contains the important news of school affairs. On the second page you may find just about anything: gossip, poems, wit, features, and editorials. All this has been capably handled this year, first by Jim Cooper, and then by Jean Thorn. On the third page are reports from Hi-Y and Girl Reserves and all the other clubs, handled by editors Barb Olmsted and Neil Nash, respectively. The fourth page, devoted exclusively to sports, is headed by Dave Moore who succeeded Bruce Winslow. Katherine Hein and Betty Bell, Grist office managers, have taken care of incoming and outgoing mail, reminded reporters of their assignments, and generally helped the staff function more efficiently.

The deadline for all material is on Tuesday afternoon, and the mad rush to get all copy in under the wire is one of the outstanding features of the organization. On every other Thursday the Grist solicitor for each home room is excused at 1:50, and at 1:55 the papers are distributed to the students. The work requires capable handling and a lot of time from those who hold positions, but the combined efforts of all have produced a paper so popular that the subscription of the school is very nearly unanimous.

Aspiring Artists

• Perhaps there is no club at Washburn with a more enthusiastic membership than Chroma. A comparatively small group, they are desperately interested in trying new mediums, subjects, anything having to do with their common interest, art. For membership in this club, applicants are required to bring three pieces of original work and to draw, during the time allotted for tryouts, any subject previously decided upon by the members. Work is then voted upon and new members chosen accordingly. This group visits various art displays, goes on sketching picnics, and is reputed to have the best refreshments at meetings imaginable. Miss Trowbridge and Miss Baker are advisers, George Fischbein is President, Betty Jane Anderson, Vice-President, Norma Lindgren, Secretary, and Grace Rice, Treasurer.

The Movie Crew records the activities of Washburn on film. It is under the direction of Mr. Parsons.

• The Quill Club holds a required meeting for its twenty members every other week, at which time they discuss the various phases of literature. The others are unrequired meetings and at these, the work of members is read. They have the opportunity of hearing what the others are doing. This year the club, under the guidance of Miss Ora McLaughlin and Mr. Bob Carlsen, has undertaken to put out a book made up of work done by the members. The creation of creative writing classes is a direct outgrowth from this club. This year the registration in these classes totaled sixty-five. In Quill, students with a natural flair for writing find a place where they can get constructive criticism and instruction along that line. They are encouraged to write often to develop an ease and skill that they would not be able to get any other way. The advisers devote a great deal of time and energy to give these aspiring young authors, poets, and playwrights instruction in technique and good writing.

The members of the Chess Club meet on Thursdays and play among themselves. Then, through challenge matches they aim to win for themselves a place on Washburn's chess team, consisting of five members. These five meet on the Saturdays following the basketball games, at the Minneapolis Chess and Checker Club, and play teams from the same schools as the basketball team played the day before.

• U.C. Club, composed of all upper class girls who care to join and pay their dues each semester to their home room representative, is one of the largest clubs at Washburn. The membership this year reached 400. The girls in this organization voluntarily take on some worth-while project each term. Last year they helped give us our powder room, and during the first semester this year, while Joan McCawley was president, they purchased a beautiful combination radio and phonograph and many fine records to present as a gift to the school.

The present officers, Ruth Sage, president; Mary-Lou Zimmerman, vice-president; Janice Lindvall, secretary; and Gloria Swanson, treasurer, plus an efficient cabinet elected by the girls, have carried on the traditionally fine, worthwhile programs to make the monthly meetings that much more appealing. During the fall term a representative from a local beauty shop brought helpful hints to the members on the essentials of good grooming. Bob Darnell and Marvin Dahlgren entertained with selections on the piano and drums, Betty Lou Sogard and Marilyn Brunsell sang, and Phoebe Craswell and Evie Whitesel presented a short skit (with a definite moral) at the spring meeting. Individual cherry pies, needless to state, carried on the equally important tradition of good refreshments. Again this year Mrs. Goodson has been U.C.'s capable adviser.

• Apprentice is, just as its name implies, a club members must apprentice in before being admitted to Harlequin. Tryouts are held for Apprentice once every semester. Those interested prepare material that will last only two minutes. They are stopped at the end of that time and asked by the Harlequin and Apprentice members who are the judges, to give various impromptu sketches. When Apprentice members try out for Harlequin, they are subject to much the same tryouts. Several prospective members work together and give a short play; they are also asked to give impromptu sketches when they are finished.

The spring officers of Harlequin were: Grayce Norton, president; Tim Rusch, vice-president; Adelaide Hustad, secretary; Mary Jean Lund, treasurer.

"It Pays to Be a Poggle" was given for a Red Cross meeting last fall; "Twelve Pound Look" was given for an auditorium during February, and "Two Crooks and a Lady" was given in the late spring.

A constitution for Harlequin was written this year by Edna Brock and Grayce Norton. It will make cooperation of the club members compulsory, and this should put the club on a higher level than ever before.

• Amid the informal atmosphere of eating lunches, the Politix club meets every Tuesday at 12:30 in room 105 to discuss the local, national, and international problems of the day. This club was organized to give the students of Washburn practical experience in the forms of parliamentary procedure, practice in public speaking, and to make possible a better informed and therefore more intellectual discussion of many vital governmental problems and of current affairs.

Tryouts for membership in the Politix club are usually held during the last six weeks period of each semester. Applicants must pass a test on parliamentary law and make a two minute talk to the members of the club. Miss Dorothy G. Peterson is the club's capable adviser.

RADIO WORKSHOP

• "Quiet! We're on the air!" Such radio "lingo" might be heard by anyone going into 210 on Wednesday or Friday. Radio Workshop is under the direction of Miss Olga Marie Novak who has spent her last few summers working with radio in New York. The club tries to approximate actual radio station conditions. Members receive training in the three main fields of radio: script-writing, producing, and engineering. New programs are rehearsed and presented every two weeks. When these programs are worthy of it, they are recorded by the sound crew. During the spring session the Workshop presented a fifteen minute program over KSTP. It was written, acted, and directed by the members.

After one semester in science club, members are invited to join Junior Academy which is a national organization. To be eligible for this club each person must have a project on which he is working. These projects are displayed at a state-wide meeting. The clubs meet on alternate Mondays after school.

BUENOS DÍAS!

• The Spanish Club, directed by Miss Laird and Miss Tupper, is probably one of the most popular groups in Washburn. Previously the only requirement for entrance had been one semester of Spanish, but because of the rapid enlargement of the department because of the growing demand for a knowledge of that language, the advisers fear that very soon some restrictions must be enforced to limit the membership. Two recent speakers were professors at the University of Minnesota.

I'll always remember you as the girl with the perfect skin.

Nous avons Le Cercle Francais

• To become a member of the French Club, the following are required: a "C" average, memorization of "La Marseillaise," and an initiation stunt. Earning a French Club pin is the goal every member works for. These pins are earned by participation in various club activities. The "Prefects," that "Le Cercle Francais" is divided into, are each responsible for the planning of one meeting a year. Mr. Hrouby, a Czechoslovakian refugee, spoke at one meeting about his escape on a bicycle from Paris to Bordeaux.

International Understanding

• This year the requirements for entrance into the German Club, under the supervision and guidance of Miss Denison, included a test on general knowledge of the German language, and a composition written in German. This club helps to further acquaint the students with these people, to encourage tolerance and understanding of them and their customs. At one meeting this term, movies were shown to the students, and at another, Mrs. Savage talked to the members. The officers of German Club during the spring semester were Jean Dahl, president; Marian Hicks, vice-president; Ruth Kauffman, secretary; and Peggy Storm, treasurer. It is their job to assist Miss Denison in bringing worthwhile programs to the members each time they meet.

THE GERMAN CLUB MEETS

• What would we do at all the football games without the Hustlers at our beck and call to supply us with candy bars and caramel apples? Football games just wouldn't be football games without them. These students, who have formed a club with Mr. Halvorson as its adviser, exchange their services at all the home games for season tickets for basketball games as well as football games. This club is purely a service organization, and the money taken in helps to buy new athletic equipment and supplies for other extra-curricular activities. The work is voluntary and the membership is limited to twenty-five persons who work hard and unselfishly and receive very little in return.

HUSTLERS—Row One: Case, Franer, Simacek, Corwin. • Row Two: Hallinan, Hafner, Tomlinson, Merriell. • Row Three: Nugent, Grant, Gessner, Radford.

Typewriters Frozen—Typists Aren't

• The Commercial Club was organized in order that there might be a bond of friendship between persons with similar interests and a wider information concerning the business world. Speakers from offices, discussions of etiquette, and occasional social affairs make up the semester's program.

In order to be a member one must be at least an 11A and have a C average in two commercial subjects. Officers are chosen from the twelfth grade. The president and treasurer are 12As while the vice-president and secretary are 12Bs.

A worthwhile outgrowth of the Commercial Club is an active alumni association for commercial graduates. This group has dinner meetings twice a year to discuss their work and renew old acquaintances.

The Stage Crew

THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS

• This term there were thirteen members of the stage crew, over one-half of whom were seniors. These boys meet with Mr. Parsons every day during the third period for instruction. The purpose of the group is to provide boys experienced in stage management for the various school activities held in the auditorium. The boys are taught to handle stage equipment and scenery efficiently and neatly, to perform many tasks that might arise in this work, and to reduce and if possible avoid all fire hazards. The boys have an opportunity to apply their knowledge during Harlequin plays and other auditoriums. It is up to them to a great extent to see that the program goes off without a hitch, and we seldom stop to realize how much work they do for very little glory. The real test comes with the class play. At this time they are called on to use all their knowledge and experience gained during the year, and put it into actual practice.

They Keep the Lunchroom Clean!

• The big job of maintaining a neat, orderly lunchroom for both lunch periods this year has been efficiently handled by Miss Lowry and her crew of eighty hostesses. The hostesses, who may be identified by their little green tags, are excused three minutes early from their class preceding lunch, on presenting this tag to their teacher, so that they are already on duty when the others arrive in the lunchroom. Each hostess is assigned to a definite table, and is responsible for the appearance of it. It is her job to see that the table of which she is in charge is cleared of all dishes and garbage, and that the stools are counted and pushed neatly beneath the table before she leaves the lunchroom. They also try to help the new girls to become acquainted with the people at the table. It is largely through their efforts that our lunchroom is kept the pleasant, well disciplined place that it is. These girls render a real service to the school which counts in their favor when they are eligible for any school honor, and at the end of each term they are rewarded with some small token in recognition of their work.

Music, Maestro, Please

• If strains of music from the works of great masters have met your puzzled ears lately, it's the orchestra playing snatches of famous overtures and symphonies while members acquaint themselves with some of the finer music. At the same time, this organization, under the able direction of Mr. Super, has broken precedence this year by playing several strictly popular selections for the school at an assembly.

This term the band has been working to perfect a group of well known tunes in preparation for accompanying the students in community singing.

Scaling the Heights

• The Glee Club renders the school much pleasure through the many musical programs during the year. Among these are the annual Christmas program and the programs for Memorial and Armistice days. There are three groups that compose the Washburn club; they are the Girls' Chorus, Boys' Chorus, and the Mixed Chorus. The boys' and girls' clubs each meet separately twice a week. Tryouts are held every year to choose students with outstanding voices. The Christmas chorus of over 350 voices is also under the direction of Emil J. Beckstrom. Because it is so popular two programs have to be given at Christmas; one for the parents and one for the students.

your a swell gal, Per

THE Home Rooms of Washburn are the backbone of all the extra-curricular activities. They interpret, through the reading of the bulletin, the various office rules and regulations. This year the Home Rooms aided in the "Book for a Buddy" collection, and other national emergency activities necessary to win the war!

We're the Next to Leave Washburn

• We are the 12B's of Washburn. We boys and girls may now both meet in the same big Home Room, 325. We have Home Room to carry out our class business. Our president is Bud Hurd, our vice-president, Dorothy Otness, our secretary, Donna Anderson, and our treasurer, John Nugent. Home Room is held after second period three times a week. Banking is done on Tuesday during this period, and our Grist is distributed in Home Room. We have intramural athletics planned by the gym teachers and played among the Home Rooms. Every grade now gives its own mixer. We adopted a patriotic theme for ours. Lincoln Hicks, as master of ceremonies, helped make it a huge success. We gave defense stamp books and 25c defense stamps as prizes. We feel that we have progressed, for we will be the next graduating class.

Stratford on Avon?...

• We the 11A's now find ourselves well along in our high school career. We have survived our first three semesters in Washburn and now only have three more to go. We find ourselves learning Shakespeare and spouting it in our Home Rooms as well as every other place. We may always be spotted by the familiar ring of our voices chiming out "Sweet are the uses of adversity." We continue studying American History which we started last semester. We help our country by contributing to the aluminum collection for National Defense. We also brought books for "Buddies."

We are interested in intramural sports. One of the Home Rooms for our grade, 113, won the basketball championship for the school. Our fun comes with our mixer. The theme carried out was the Good Neighbor Policy in the South American Way. Tom Thompson was our master of ceremonies, and Paul Murphy gave an exhibition of the tango, conga, and the bolero. On the serious side grades begin to tell, for it is in 11A that those in the upper fourth of the class are given their first opportunity to be elected to the National Honor Society. It is with high hopes of our senior year that we finish 11A.

Junior Miss and Mister

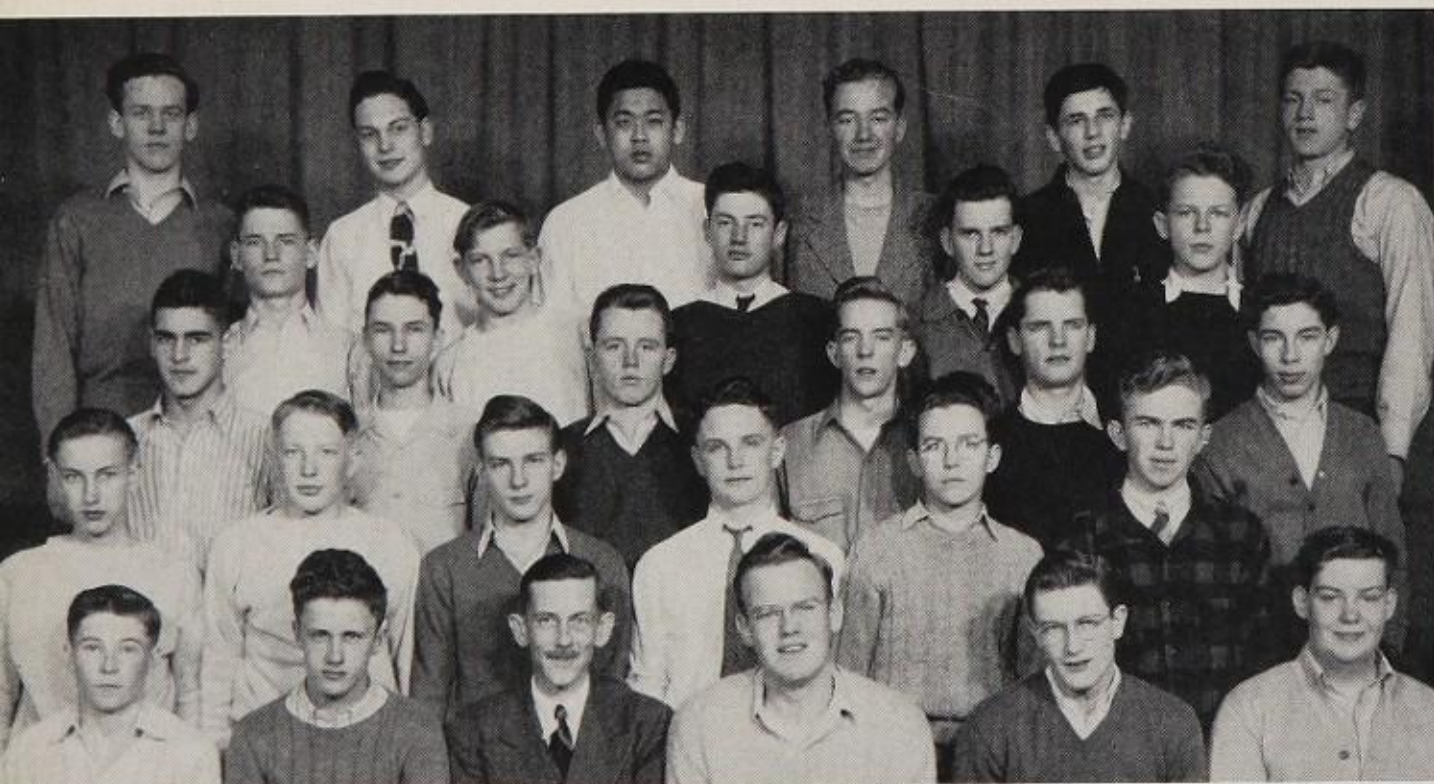

• We form the 11B Home Rooms. We have finished our first year at Washburn and now take on several new subjects. We take News for our English work. It is with this training that we hope to become the future reporters for the Grist. We also study American History which is so important at this time, because we learn how a democracy functions and how current affairs affect us.

In 11B the girls may become members of the U.C. Club, and the boys may join one of the Hi-Y Chapters. Like every other grade we had a mixer too. Ours was given on Friday the 13th so our theme was carried out accordingly. We had black cats, horseshoes, four-leaf clovers, and ladders for decorations. We also had our own eleven-piece band. In 11B we elect to the Student Council two members, which gives us more influence than we had before and creates more interest in the government of the school.

We're One Step Forward Now

• We are no longer the youngest ones in the school. We are in 10A. We have learned some of the ropes and are now passing off on the new 10B's some of the things we were taken in by last year. We have learned not to buy elevator tickets, and what to expect in the Minimum Essential English test. We have our officers for our Home Rooms, and we carry on our business of banking and ticket-selling during Home Room period. We are now more interested in our athletic teams. The athletically inclined may win a place on the sophomore squad if he is good enough. The sophomore squads this year have done exceptionally well. We have had students from cooking, sewing, botany, and chemistry classes tell us about what they do in these courses. This helps us in making out our programs for the coming semesters. Some of the girls' Home Rooms do Red Cross work. We begin to learn more about the clubs which help us make new friends who stimulate our interest in the school activities and projects. We have had our second mixer since we came here. It was carried out with the St. Patrick theme. In 10A we now feel ourselves a real part of the school.

We're Looking Toward the Future

• 10B's are we. New at Washburn, but we are beginning to find our classes and lockers and even to find the principal's office. We have the first auditorium of the year at which Mr. MacQuarrie tells us about the school. We learn to sing "Cheer for the Orange and Blue." We are divided into separate Home Rooms with boys in some and girls in others. We have one member on the Student Council. Something new at Washburn this year is that every grade now has a mixer. Formerly only the 11A's and Seniors were allowed that privilege. As 10B's we took advantage of this new opportunity. Eddy Nelson, a member of our class, and his orchestra played for us. We had games for those who did not dance such as miniature bowling, truth or consequences, and weight guessing by Harry Anderson. We don't like to be called "Tenbeezers" and we hope some day to attain the right to be called "Seniors" instead.

TO aid the development of leadership and sportsmanship, Washburn's sports schedule for 1942 was well-rounded as usual. Our singular intramural program fell right in with the idea of building strong bodies in the youth of the nation. We can be proud of the way in which Washburn students were prepared for their part in the defense of America.

Millers Complete Best Season

• A dark cloud of tragedy cast its gloom over Washburn when, in the opening scrimmage of the 1941 season, Jim Rundell was fatally injured. Jim's death, a blow to the whole school, might have ruined the morale of a less determined squad of gridders, but to the Orange and Blue of the '41 team it was a challenge—a challenge to play every game in the "Win for Jim" spirit. It was a challenge to carve out a season that could be looked back on with pride and one that would be a tribute to the memory of Jim Rundell.

The opening game found the Millers not quite prepared. Lacking timing and polish because of the four day cancellation of practice, they nevertheless put up a real fight before going down to defeat at the hands of Edison by a score of 14-7.

The following week Roosevelt came to Washburn intent on spoiling the Orange and Blue Homecoming. However, they met a far different team than they expected and came out on the small end of a 26-7 score.

Next came Marshall. The Millers sparked by Gene Moore's runback of the opening kickoff ran roughshod over Cappy Jones' Cardinals. The Millers ran up a score of 39-0.

FOOTBALL (Continued)

• The "Orange" went into the Vocational game a week later as under-dogs to a smooth, Kasid-led, gang of "Volts." The Millers, behind going into the final period, brought victory out of defeat by a crushing two touchdown splurge in the fourth quarter. Fighting off every "Volt" threat in the closing minutes, the Olson crew came out ahead 19-13.

South was next on the win program. The "Tigers" put up a game battle but fell before a smooth running Miller machine by the score of 19-7. The feature of this game was the brilliant, game saving, defensive work of Gene Moore.

The next Friday Washburn journeyed to Central to keep a Homecoming date at the mid-town school. The Miller men ran up two quick touchdowns in a first quarter scoring spree and converting each try for point. Central taking the cue, put over two touchdowns of their own but very obligingly missed the conversion kick on the second score. That spelled their defeat. The Dillner men nosed out this one 14-13, thanks to Jerry Remole's educated toe.

The Millers entered the all important West game the following week minus the services of its ace half back and Captain, Warren Olson. "Whizz" was sorely missed. Without the threat of his accurate passes and with much of the old scoring punch gone as a re-

The following week rang down the curtain on 1941 football. The Orange and Blue took Patrick Henry into camp to the tune of 26-6.

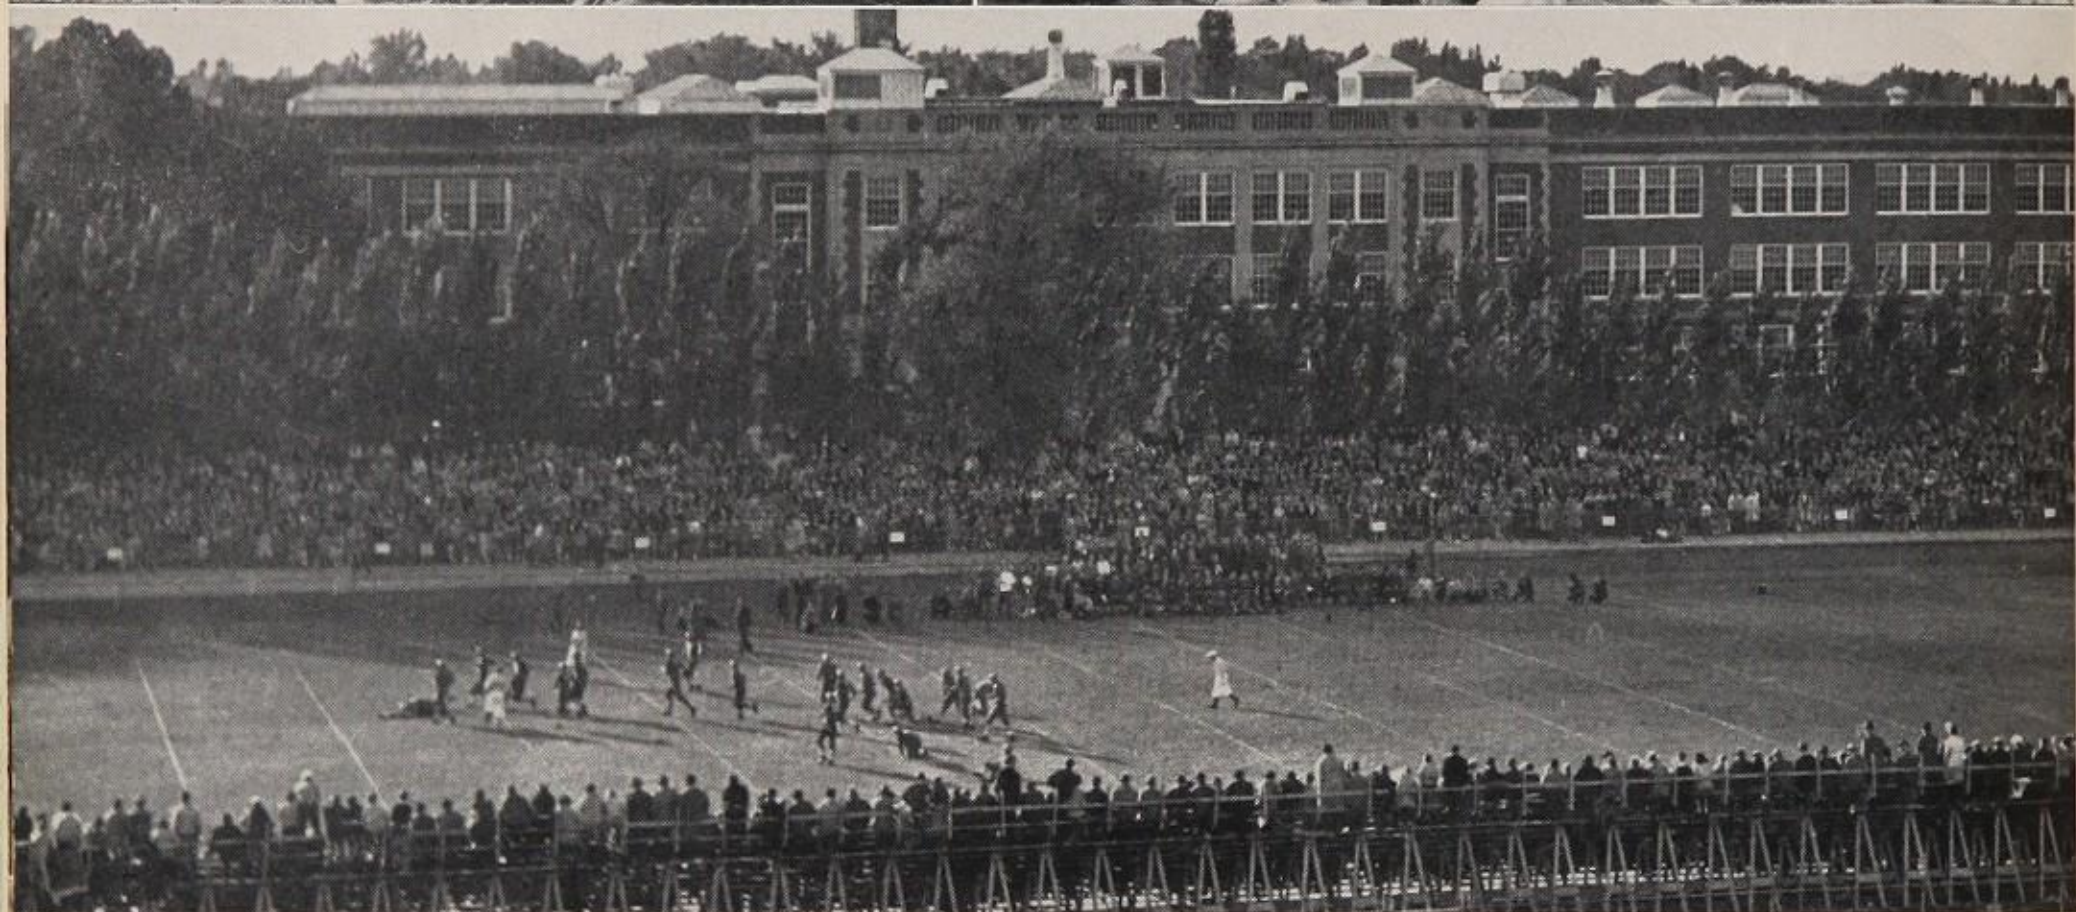

In every way it was a grand season. A season we are proud to dedicate to your memory—Jim Rundell.

- Tragedy struck in the first week of football practice in the fall of 1941 — during the first scrimmage of the year, JIM RUNDELL was knocked unconscious and later passed on in the hospital as a result of a brain concussion.

Just as his spirit prevailed throughout the 1941 football season, Jim will be remembered for the fine example of sportsmanship and clean playing he set while in Washburn.

Boys' "W" and Athletic Board

• The athletically inclined young men of Washburn have two organizations to membership in which they may rise. The first, and probably the one holding the more honor, is the Athletic Board. Unlike that of any other school, Washburn's Athletic Board has equal representation for all sports and a membership restricted to all team captains, faculty advisers, and coaches. First in the line of the club's duties is to establish requirements for the winning of a letter. They take charge of distributing the letters and managing the school's athletic finances, also. Still another important function of the Athletic Board is to take care of sports eligibility in accordance with scholastic ratings.

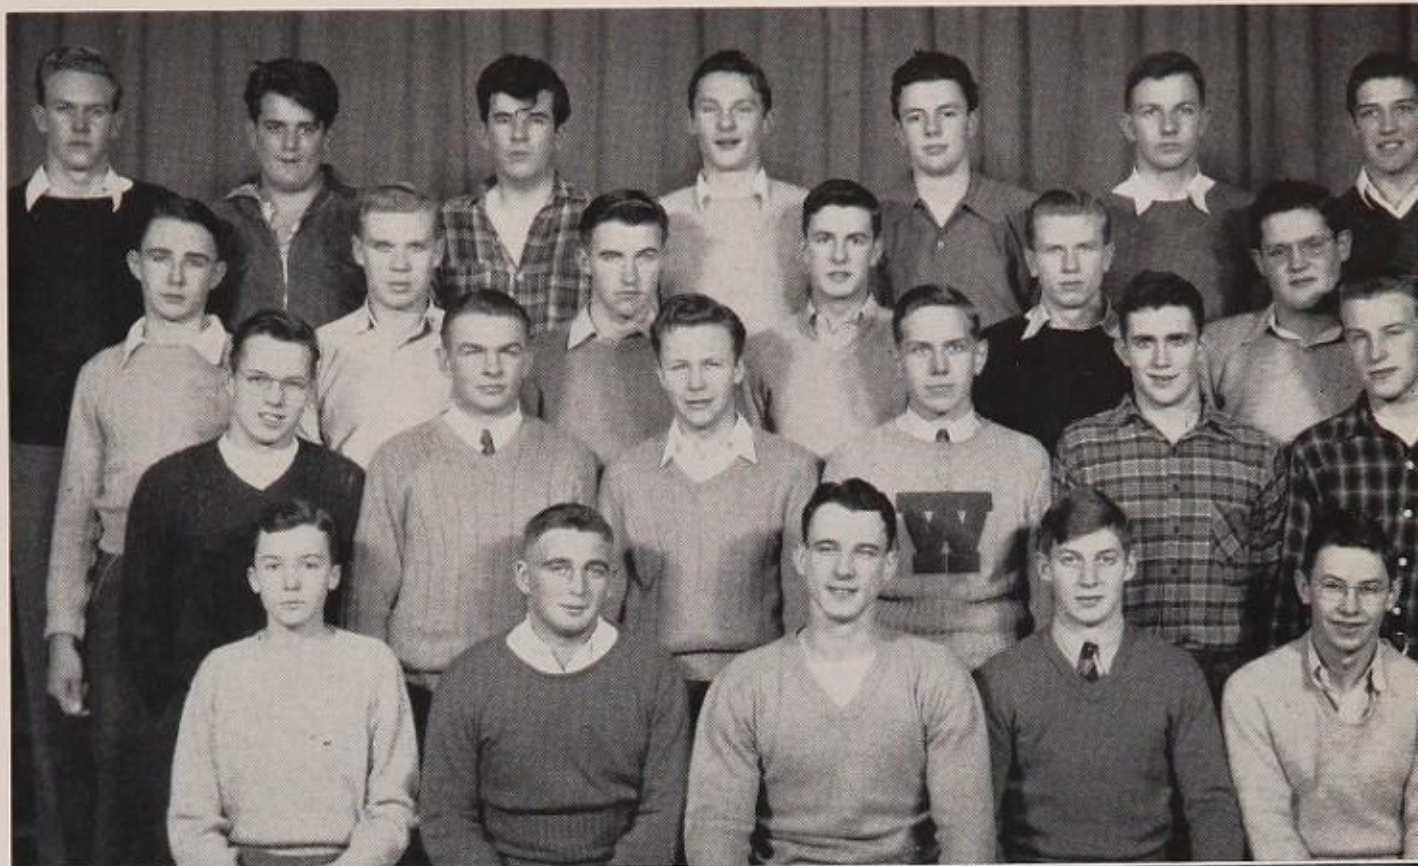

The second of these organizations is the boys' "W" club. This group is composed of all boys who have successfully fulfilled the requirements set up by the Athletic Board for the winning of a "W." In other words all boys who receive a letter in any sport automatically become members of the boys' "W" club. Thus it can be seen why membership in this club is the desire of every red-blooded Washburnite from the day he enters 10B until the day he leaves 12A.

Once in the fall and once in the spring these two organizations get together and hold their semi-annual athletic banquet. Last fall, after the football season, the usual banquet was held. According to precedent and tradition, the newest member of the faculty, Mr. Ray Smith, backfield coach of the football team, was toastmaster. Mr. Jim Kelly, track coach at the University of Minnesota, was guest speaker.

Gym Team

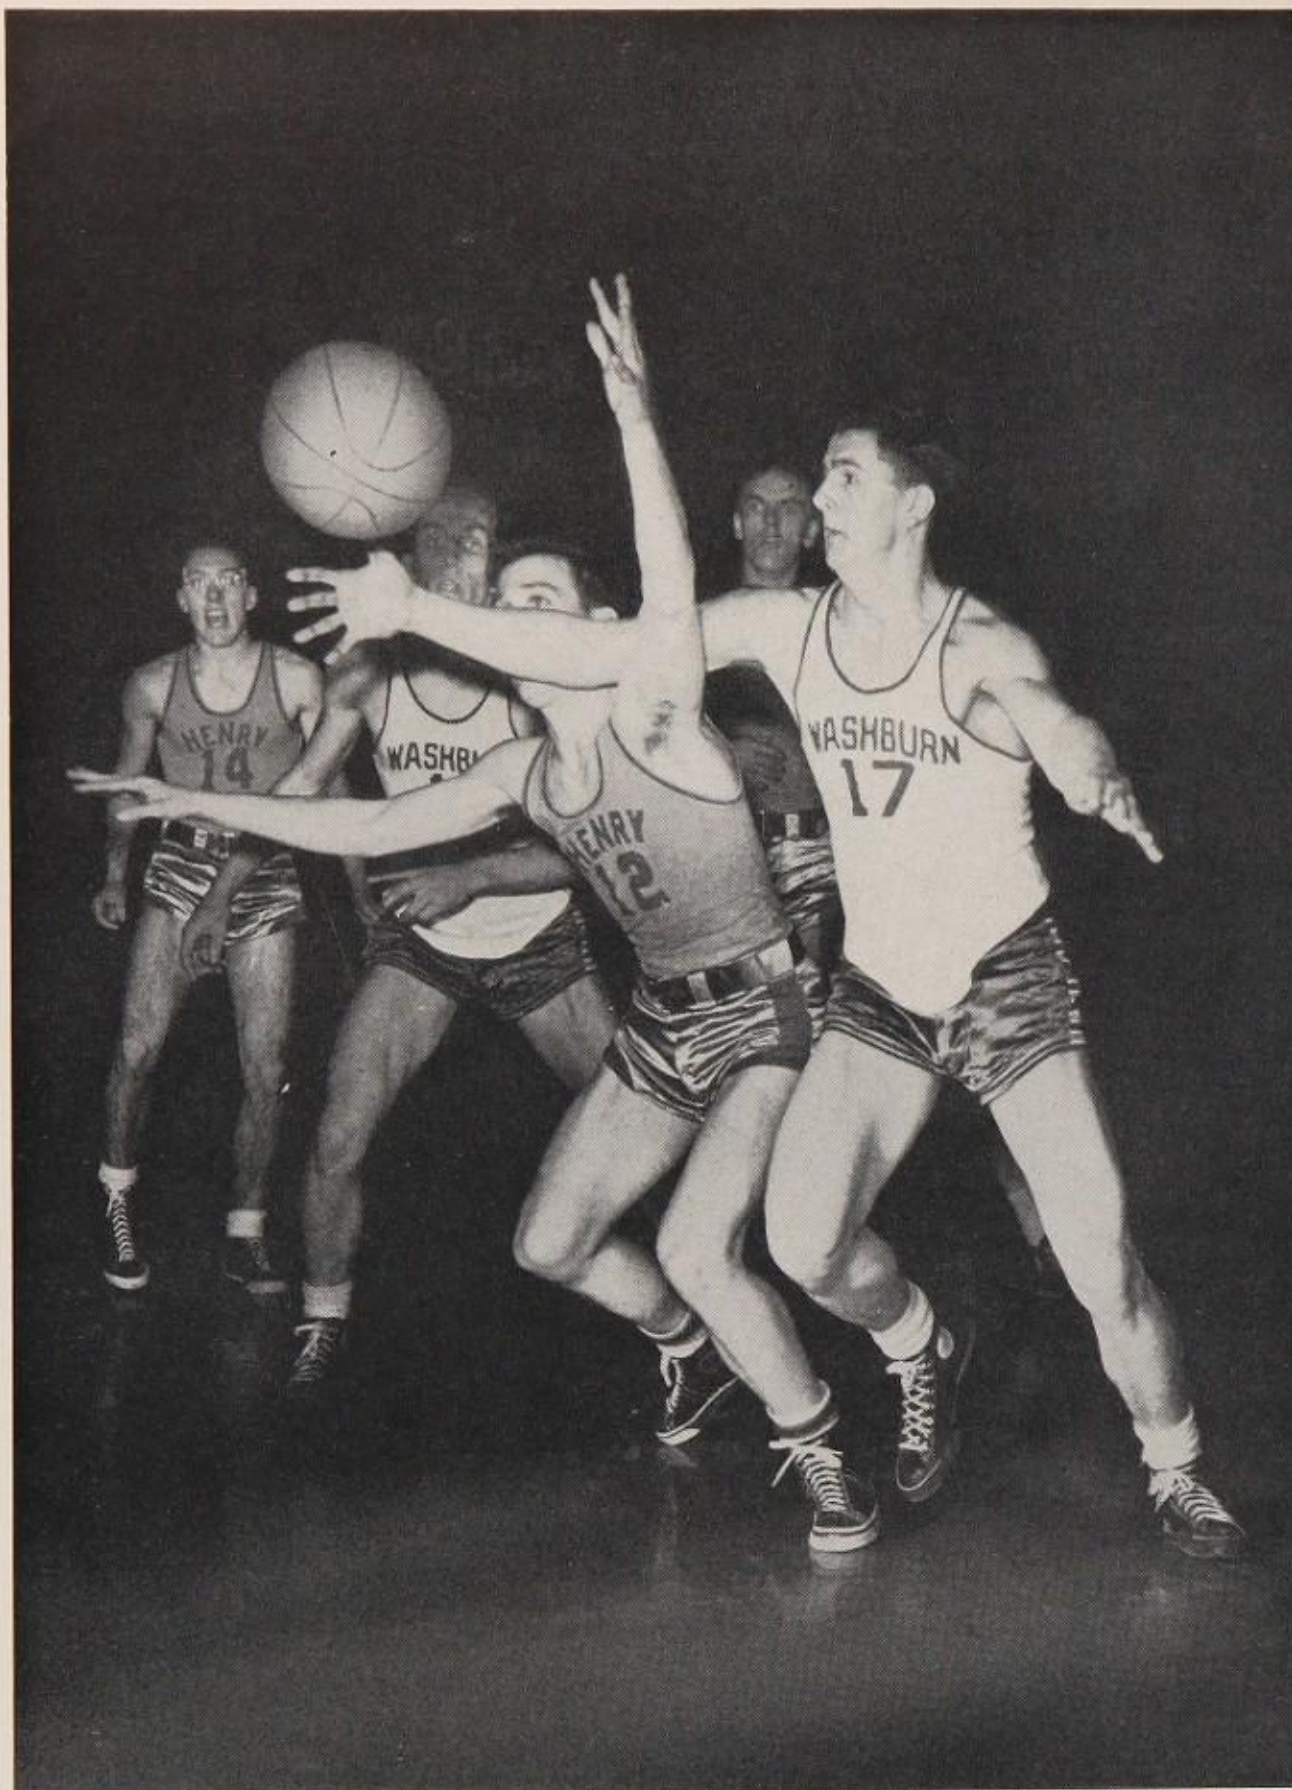

• The Gym Team entered only three boys, Bob Clark, Willis Duryea, and Jack McQuillan, in the Northwest Gym Tournament. Because there was not a full team entered in that tournament, Washburn was able only to capture individual honors. Bob Clark and Jack McQuillan are the team's letter winners this year. Mr. Larson, the coach, says prospects look better for next year.

PAUL SUTTON, CAPTAIN

Millers Fought for Titles

• Coach Ray Ross' 1941-42 Millers started the defense of their district and regional titles against an inexperienced crew from Patrick Henry, and the final count showed Washburn leading 47-25. The following week the Millers chalked up their second victory, this time against West, 44-28. Now recognized as a possible title threat, Washburn was surprised by a first class Teddie outfit, and bowed to them 31-36.

The loss of Moore, Tustison and Warren at graduation greatly affected the playing of the team. As a result, the Orange and Blue were over run by a great team from Marshall. Final score: 41-52.

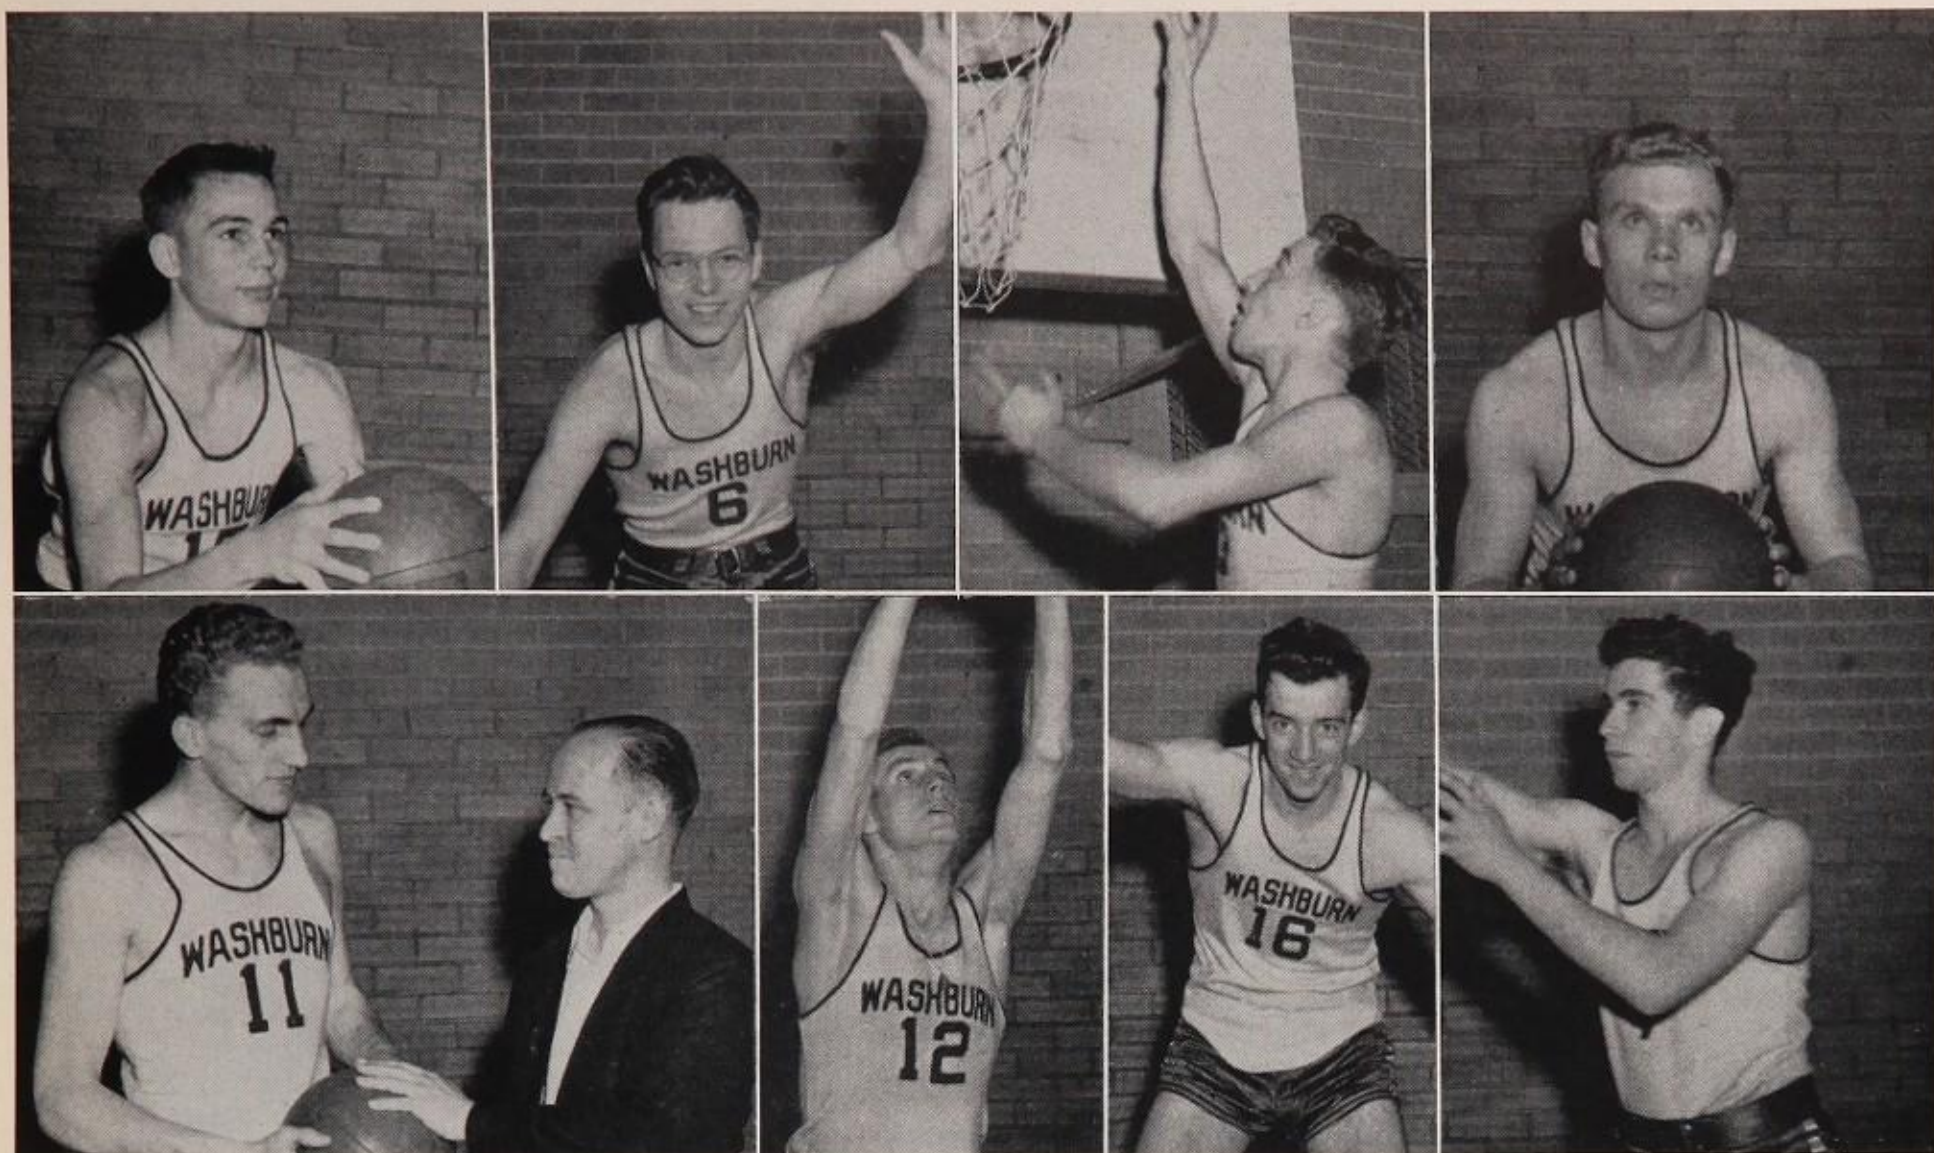

In the first of two thrill packed games, Washburn was matched against a determined North High quintet. At the end of the final regular period, the score stood at 25-25. In overtime, a free throw by Halenkamp, and buckets by Sutton and Durrell clinched a 30-26 victory. Then came the second of the two thrill games. Capt. Paul Sutton's boys ran into South and the boys barely eked out a 33-32 victory in an overtime period. In the next two contests, Washburn triumphed and then went down to defeat. We first defeated Central 42-32, and then lost to Edison 35-42. The Millers wound up the regular season with a 32-27 victory over Vocational.

At the end of the regular season, Washburn was holding fourth place in the city and was pitted against the seventh place South. South was well prepared and promptly eliminated Washburn.

SOPHOMORE STARS

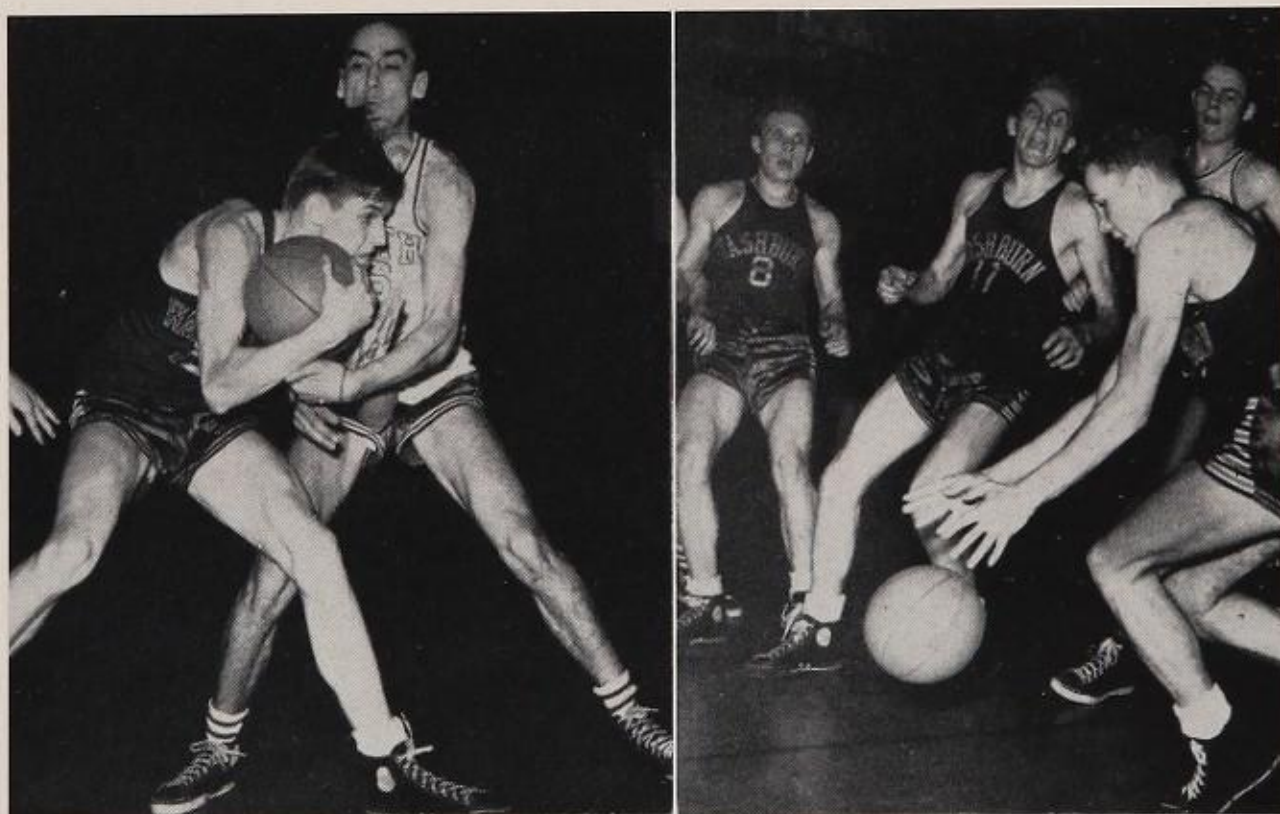

• The Sophomore basketball team, under the able direction of Mr. Ray Smith, all-around coach, made a formidable record in gaining 13 wins against no defeats. The squad, composed of about 15 players, ran up against 6 different teams in the city twice and came out on the long end each time.

Again State Track Champs!

• Coach Larsen's 1942 Winged Millers started their yearly campaign for cups, medals and glory by qualifying 13 men in the Metropolitan Indoor Track Meet. The '41 Champs, who were not expected to give too good a showing in the finals, surprised everyone by taking second place and coming within four points of first place North, the highly favored winners. This was due in part to the exploits of Ray Tharp who got 23 out of 44 points by himself.

The prospects for the 1942 season were not too grand, but experts and novices alike agreed that as long as the Washburn team had such sterling performers as Captain Dick Gehring and veteran Ray Tharp, it would not finish too far down in the standings.

A determined group of "we can do it again" tracksters had quite a pair of spiked shoes to step into, as the 1941 team was not defeated in regular competition. The Millers of that year, led by such athletes as Captain Ray Tharp, Doug Senn, Fred Bieri, and Dick Gehring, won the Metropolitan Meet and defeated South and Southwest in dual meets.

These same boys, along with Bob Bossing, who set a new school discus record, defeated Central, West, and Southwest in the annual Quadrangular Meet held on MacQuarrie Field by a large score.

ANOTHER STATE MEET TITLE FOR THARP

On May tenth, Washburn's track men journeyed to the Carleton Invitational Meet at Northfield, Minnesota. After a full day's running, jumping, and throwing, they emerged as Class L champions for the fourth year in a row. Senn won both dashes and ran anchor position to spark the relay team to a brilliant victory.

The Orange and Blue continued on the win trail by annexing a repeat win in the City Meet to an already impressive record. Tharp won both hurdle events besides getting a few points in the field.

The following week Mr. Larsen's star performers captured the State Track Championship title. Unfortunately, however, Doug Senn dropped the only races of his high school career by losing to Luckmeyer of St. Cloud, a sprinter whom Doug had beaten in the past. At any rate, the Miller flyer came back to run one of the best prep 220's ever seen on the University of Minnesota track as he paced the relay team to a victory in near record time at his position as anchor man. Tharp continued with his double State Championship in the high and low hurdles.

So with this, the 1941 team closed a highly successful season, having shown their mettle by winning the Metropolitan Meet, the Carleton Meet, and the City and State Championships.

DURRELL BUNTS --- DORN TO HEYWOOD

• With decisive victories over their first four adversaries, the Rossmen started the 1941 season with the crack of a bat. The return of six lettermen, captained by Bob Polk, gave Coach Ross a splendid team to work with.

One of the most unusual happenings in recent years occurred when star Gale Warren struck out 25 Roosevelt men, setting a new record for strikeouts in a single game, and still Washburn lost by a score of 10-9.

Only three lettermen are returning this year, but some fine players have come up from the sophomore and second teams. Bud Mellom will be back behind the plate and Bob Berglund will be hurling the smokeballs. Captain Jim Demos will give this year's nine that typical Washburn spirit.

Mr. Ross likes this team's prospects, particularly its pitching, and thinks that with a little more batting practice, the 1942 season will be a success.

Linkmen and Netmen Seek Titles

• With the enviable record of three consecutive city championships to shoot at, Coach Alwin's linkmen, led by Captain Neil Sorenson, will start the defense of their crowns against a strong team from Central.

Last year the Miller linkmen teed off on not only a city championship, but they played an undefeated and untied season and then rolled on their way to add the Twin City championship to their victory list.

A check of the 1941 tennis record shows the tennis team netted a total of six wins against three losses. The netmen triumphed over Roosevelt, Southwest, Edison, Patrick Henry, South and Marshall. The three defeats came from Central, North and West.

Pre-season dope on the 1942 schedule shows that Washburn should have the best season in many years. Although half a dozen members of last year's squad have graduated, Coach Martin and Capt. Oslund believe the addition of several new and outstanding sophomores will be enough to send the squad through a victorious season.

Winter Sports in Spite of Weather

• In spite of a mean trick played on Minneapolis and Washburn by the weatherman in the winter of 1941-42, Orange and Blue winter sports went on just about as usual during that time. Of course, there were a few undesirable limitations—that there was no snow is enough said for the fact that the skiing team saw no active service.

The dauntless hockey team, however, managed to find enough cold days to enable them to practice sufficiently to play nine games. The puckmen defeated Blake, Central and West; tied Roosevelt and Southwest; and lost to Roosevelt, West, Southwest, and Blake. It doesn't look too good to see that the Millers lost four games while winning three, but closer examination of the records will show that they defeated West and Blake and tied the other two teams in return matches.

Gaining third place in the City Meet, the swimming team was more successful. In dual meets during the year the tankmen defeated South, Southwest, Vocational, Central and Roosevelt and were defeated by Marshall, West, and Edison. The Edison meet was decided by a very close score and had not one of their men been disqualified, Washburn would surely have won.

The City Meet was very close and it is significant that the action of the Orange and Blue in that meet determined whether Marshall or West should eventually win first place. One of the high points of the meet for Washburn was when Captain Bruce Sumner won the All City backstroke title in the time of 1:8.

The Wrestling Team had a season of hard breaks, for although they only won one meet, several of the meets were lost by very narrow margins. Captain Joe Carlson was the most consistent winner.

These Activities Build Good Health

• Every spring the girls drag out their targets and start stringing their bows. The ancient art of archery is very popular at Washburn and on spring afternoons we can usually find a group of girls out on the field aiming for a "bull's eye." Archery develops grace and precision of movement.

Girls can earn fifty points toward their "W's" by riding horse back at least five times. The girls must hand in permit riding slips signed by their parents before they can ride for credit.

An additional 50 points can be earned by playing golf at least five times. The girl does not necessarily have to play a good game of golf: she may earn her points by hitting practice balls at a driving tee. Golf and riding are both popular sports and they tend to increase the girls' interests in the earning of extra points and healthful, body building exercise. One reason for the popularity of these two sports is that they are out-of-door activities.

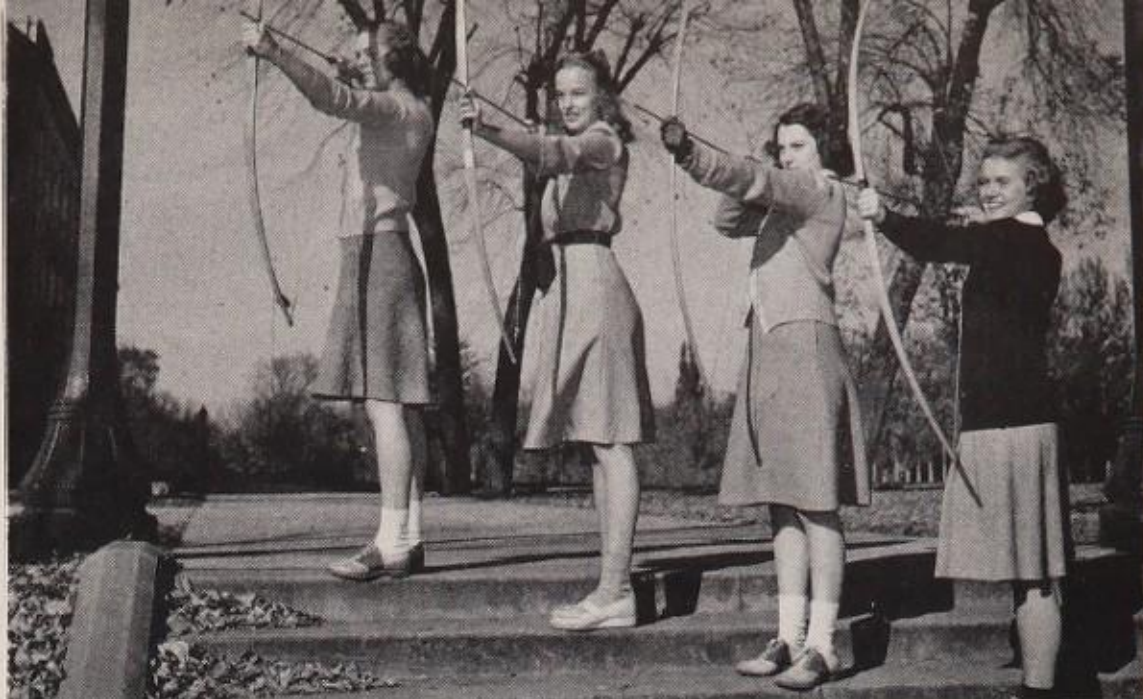

The girls' posture contest is an annual event at Washburn. This year, however, a novel touch was added. The boys also held a posture contest. The winners of the girls' contest, held on the stage for an all girl auditorium, were: first place, Pat Champion, 12A; second place, June Heck, 10A; third place, Mary Paul Berg, 11A.

The boys' posture contest finals were also held on the stage and they were for an all boy auditorium. Jack Siegert, 11A, was chosen Health King; Ray Tharp, 12A, placed second; and Gordon McKinlay, 12B, was third place winner.

The Girl "W" Wearers

• In order to win her W, each girl must earn 600 points. Then she must have a C average, and be recommended by the physical education teachers, Mr. MacQuarrie, and the girls' counselor for her character and good sportsmanship. A girl must be a member of the G.A.A. to receive her W, but she does not have to belong to play on one of the 24 home room teams. Washburn awards more letters than any other school in Minneapolis. From January 1941 to January 1942, 107 letters were awarded.

Posture for Poise

• The girls' posture contest was held the latter part of March this year. All the girls in gym classes are judged for good posture, and the ones picked try out next with the other members of their grade. The girls who are not eliminated then are judged once more, and those remaining at the end of this inspection are in the finals. The finals are held on the stage at an all-girl auditorium.

The Posture Queen this year is Pat Champion, 12A. June Heck, 10A, won second place, and Mary Paul Berg, 11A, third.

A new trophy was presented to the school, and each year the new Posture Queen's name will be engraved on it.

The three judges were Mr. Larsen, the boys' gym teacher, Miss Stevning, the physical education instructor from Marshall High School, and Miss Margaret Brown, our librarian. Besides the three winners for the school, first, second, and third places were awarded to the girls in each grade having the best posture. Altogether there were eighteen winners.

JUNE HECK, SECOND PLACE, PAT CHAMPION, FIRST PLACE, MARY PAUL BERG, THIRD PLACE.

THE POSTURE FINALISTS

BADMINTON AND TENNIS

• Badminton games are played either before or after school and are twenty minutes long. If partners win three out of four games they are put in the play off, where they continue playing until defeated. There is a sufficient number of racquets and shuttle cocks to supply an average gym class. Official rules are followed.

The tennis tournament is played on outside courts and not in the gym. The winner of the fall tournament was Laura Lee Snedecker who defeated Marilyn Ranum.

OH, WHAT A RACQUET!

DECK TENNIS

• Deck tennis is also an individual sport. Its rules are very similar to those of tennis, from which the name was taken. The game is played with a hard rubber ring which may not be clutched to the body when caught, but must be grasped firmly with no shifting of hand positions before throwing the return. Only the serve must be thrown smoothly. All other tosses may be thrown with various kinds of twists and turns.

THE RINGLING SISTERS IN ACTION

BASEBALL

• Another way that girls can earn G.A.A. points is by playing in the home room diamondball tournament that is held every spring. Two diamonds are located in the athletic field and four others between the sidewalk and the bleachers. Games are played both during classes and after school. Captains referee and score the games. Playing enables the girls to earn 50 points. Weather is the factor that determines whether the baseball tournament will be finished before school is dismissed.

STRIKE!

SPEEDBALL

• Speedball is the first sport presented in the fall, and one that everyone seems to enjoy. There were twenty-four home room teams that competed this fall, but because of unfavorable weather there was no play-off. In speedball there are twelve active players. The others remain on the line and take turns by rotating. There is a captain for each home room who keeps the members of her team informed of the schedule.

SPEEDBALL CAPTAINS

BASKETBALL

• As there was not enough time to completely finish the basketball tournament there was no actual winner this year. However, the teams received their awards on a point basis. Line basketball is the type that is played: it increases the enthusiasm and makes it more interesting for player and spectator alike. Each player plays one minute as guard, then rotates to the center for a minute, and from there to the forward position.

KILGORE GOES IN FOR A REBOUND

VOLLEYBALL

• A volleyball tournament between the home room teams is a favorite with the girls. As in other sports, the gym periods are given over to the practicing and developing of greater skill along this line. A very large group of girls participated this season, and to enable everyone to see the play-off between the girls of 12B2 and home room 215, an all girl auditorium was held. The girls of 215 were the winners.

GRACE PERSONIFIED

GIRLS' GYM ACTIVITIES

• The modern dancing class at Washburn has been very successful in the last year. The girls are taught many different steps. The first semester is devoted to instructing the girls in the fundamental developments of the dance. During the second semester, the class is divided up into groups of four or five girls. Each of these groups endeavors to compose steps and dances of its own. Much emphasis has been laid on gracefulness. Some very novel ideas have originated in the individual groups, and have been worked out to express ideas of nature and emotion. Miss Thurston is the instructor, and she handles the class very capably. She gives them much time to work out their own ideas and interpret the music in their own way.

Washburn's folk dancing class is becoming more popular among the girls. In it, the girls are taught the characteristic folk dances of the old countries including such well known ones as the Polka, the Schottische, and the Virginia Reel. The class meets twice a week and each girl has her own partner. Many original ideas have come from these amateur teams. The class has danced for several outdoor auditoriums creating a pleasing picture of olden dances on the grass.

Folk dancing starts out as an educational experience, while the repetition of it is a recreational one. This is one of the chief advantages of folk dancing over other types. The teacher of folk dancing, Miss Bowen, does not strive for perfection. Skill in performance and greater enjoyment comes as the dances are repeated. Like other forms of dancing, folk dancing is a splendid form of healthful exercise which provides a good opportunity to develop the basic rhythmic skills, the skills of balance and carriage and the principles of courtesy and grace.

Falls, handsprings, cartwheels, back bends, and fish flops are only a few of the acrobatics taught in the girls' tumbling class. Besides individual stunts, they make pyramids. Tumbling is more strenuous than the other gym classes. There are thirty-four in the class this year, but many more than that number have signed up for the fall term. Tumbling, like modern and folk dancing, is increasing in popularity every year.

City Wide Wearers

• A girl must earn 1,000 points to win her City Wide Emblem. Points towards this emblem are added to the 600 already required for a W. To be eligible she also has to be a member of the Girls' Athletic Association, have a C average, and meet with the approval of the gym teachers. This award is the greatest distinction in girls' athletics.

G.A.A. Board

• The G.A.A. Board is composed of officers of the G.A.A., representatives for each sport in which the girls may win G.A.A. points, and assistants for each sport if desired. Members are appointed each semester, and are required to own a Washburn W. The Board acts as the governing body, and has recently revised the G.A.A. constitution. Officers for the spring semester were: Sara MacMichael, president; Norma Smith, vice-president; Marilyn Ranum, secretary, and Ione Norby, treasurer.

Delightful to Teach the Young Idea

• Mr. Wells and Miss Christensen, boys' and girls' counselors, respectively, help students with their personal problems. They assist students in the proper selection of subjects to prepare them for college entrance or to fit them for the vocation they hope to pursue.

Mr. Wells is in charge of locker inspection. He interviews parents and aids boys in program adjustment. He advises students in regard to colleges and often finds positions for those who wish to enter the business world after graduation from High School.

Miss Christensen gives the girl students valuable assistance with their problems and advises them in regard to vocations in which they may be interested. The girls feel a sincere affection for her, and she is most successful in this capacity.

To Mr. Wells and Miss Christensen falls the supervision of the many activities of the 12A graduating class.

Mr. Fleenor occupies the position of assistant principal. Program planning and the supervision of the Wahian business staff are a few of the projects which he directs.

Miss Neel, the visiting teacher, takes an interest in the development of students as individuals. Obstacles, such as poor scholarship, unsatisfactory behavior, personality difficulties, mental and physical handicaps are a few of her problems.

What Everyone

• An effective vocabulary, clear enunciation, a well modulated voice, and an intelligent understanding of the subject matter distinguish the conversation of an educated man or woman. We are judged by the world in general to a great extent by our ability to express ourselves. To gain a mastery of our language we should read books which are well written and listen attentively to those persons who have acquired an ability to express themselves well. Washburn's English staff teaches the students, in three years, an excellent command of the English language. Pupils read stimulating biographies, they learn to appreciate the wisdom and beauty in poetry, to recognize good books, and most important of all, to write and speak correctly and effectively.

LADY MACBETH WELCOMES DUNCAN TO WASHBURN'S HALLS AS SHAKESPEARE STUDENTS DRAMATIZE A SCENE FROM "MACBETH."

• In beginning his three year English course, the tenth grade student studies Scott's Ivanhoe and Tennyson's Idylls of the King. He then gains a thorough knowledge of American literature, which includes works of early and late modern authors. He also begins his extensive study of grammar.

Students may choose either News or English S3 in their junior year. In the News classes, under the supervision of Miss Dowling and Mr. Claeson, the student studies the modern newspaper and correct news writing. By completing certain requirements, a student may become a reporter of the school newspaper. In the third semester English class, literary writing is stressed.

"Is this a dagger which I see before me—" these lines open Macbeth's famous speech, which all English S4 students enjoy learning. Shakespeare has often been deemed the master playwright and sonneteer, thus it is especially fitting for students to devote a half year to his works. The required term theme gives the student his first opportunity to do research work. University plays of Shakespearean nature are eagerly attended. The study of modern plays is an added attraction in the course.

Delving into the background of English Literature, the senior begins his last year's study of this course with the Anglo-Saxon Age. In addition to absorbing the famous works of Chaucer, the poetry of Spencer, and Bacon's essays, the student becomes familiar with poetry of all ages. The last semester is also concerned with the study of short stories and plays. An extensive review of grammar prepares the student for writing his senior term theme.

Should Know

Washburn was commended for the general excellence of its entries in a contest sponsored by a Minneapolis bank last spring. First prize was awarded to Lorraine Stedman and third prize to Helen Harrington.

In the Hennepin County Bar Association essay contest, Mary Lu Jameson received the highest award and several Washburn students were given honorable mention.

The radio class studies the numerous radio terms, the importance of timing, and the art of directing. The student learns to act in front of a microphone, and is encouraged to write radio scripts.

Under the direction of Miss Novak, the public speaking class develops poise and the art of self expression.

The modern drama class studies all phases of the stage. The student learns to act and studies directing technique. The class reads famous plays, and the individual is encouraged to write a few of his own.

Art For Art's Sake

• Sketch, Design and Color, Commercial Design, and Fashion Design are the four different and instructive courses offered to students interested in Art work. Miss Marion Trowbridge and Miss Maxine Baker teach these courses.

In sketch, the student learns the proportions of the human figure and is taught the importance of lights and darks to bring out the folds and curves of the figure. The study of the fundamental line arrangement and color combination is carried on in the Design and Color course. Commercial Design is, as the title suggests, the study of commercial art with emphasis on lettering. Anyone interested in fashion would greatly enjoy Fashion Design. The pupil is taught to design smart clothes and accessories and to use the proper color combinations in his work.

Practice Makes Perfect

• Few subjects are of more practical use to a girl than cooking and sewing. Throughout the semester the faculty find it very convenient to have the cooking classes prepare foodstuffs for them. The girls order and prepare the commodities under the capable supervision of Miss Helen S. Grant. During the semester the girls prepare and serve well-balanced and nourishing luncheons.

Every girl should learn to sew. To be able to make dresses and good-looking suits, and then advance to something more difficult, is a talent well worth the effort. Miss Myra Goode supervises this class. In S4 semester they may take consumer education.

Music Hath Charms

• Every student is required to take chorus until his senior year at Washburn. Though the majority of them do not expect to become musicians, everyone develops a sense of rhythm and derives more pleasure from the music which they hear. The student learns to recognize well-known pieces and to appreciate good music. Great emphasis is placed upon the correct reading of notes which benefits the gifted students who plan to pursue their musical studies more extensively. Great pleasure may be derived from the group singing of classical and patriotic compositions. By the end of a semester each student must be able to write the first and last verses of the Star Spangled Banner to receive his credit. Under the able direction of Mr. Emil Beckstrom and Mr. George Super, chorus is a valuable part of the school curriculum.

The annual Christmas chorus under Mr. Beckstrom's direction has become a treasured tradition at Washburn. The Girls' Glee Club, the Boys' Chorus, and the Mixed Glee Club are fine organizations which furnish music for many occasions during the school year.

Students who enjoy playing band or orchestral instruments, find an outlet for their talents in the Band and Orchestra which perform for athletic events and auditoriums. These splendid organizations are under the supervision of Mr. George Super.

Food For Health

• Too much credit cannot be given the school's lunchroom cooks. Together with Miss Anne McCune, who supervises the preparation of the food, a well-balanced and tempting diet is always available.

Mrs. Florence Leversee is the school nurse at Washburn High School. Pains and discomforts are often eased by her. Before going home, ill students must report to her.

• Sociology and economics are elective subjects for seniors. Sociology is an interesting study of crime, mental diseases, and other problems of modern life. Students find the class discussions and the application of the problems to daily life very valuable. The study of religion from a world viewpoint broadens our horizons and is most inspiring. Those teaching this subject are Mr. Smith, Mr. Curtis, Mr. Lindstedt, and Mr. Hoard.

Economics, a study of money and the many problems associated with it, is a practical and timely subject.

History Makes

THE WAR IS DECLARED AT WASHBURN ON DECEMBER 8, 1941.

FOLLOWING MODERN EVENTS IN A WORLD HISTORY CLASS.

HISTORY CHANGES RAPIDLY.

• Washburn requires every junior to study American History. This study has never been more vital to us than it is today. The development of our country from its earliest beginnings, the struggles from which our government and its constitution resulted, are traced. We study the advancement of our country to its present position as a World Power, and thus we are better able to understand our current history. Every loyal American should know as much as possible of the principles for which our country has fought in the past, and which we are now engaged in defending. This subject is presented by Mr. Halvorson, Miss Perry, Mrs. Goodson, and Mr. Frogen.

Civics is also a required subject and should appeal to every thoughtful student. Our government, local, state, and national, should be understood by every young person if he is to become an intelligent citizen of our democracy.

World History, with its study of the histories of countries so much in the daily news, is a fascinating subject. It helps us to understand the underlying causes back of the present world conflict. Emphasis is placed upon current events which makes this a subject no one should miss, under the supervision of Mr. Alwin and Miss Peterson.

Science Stimulates Speculation

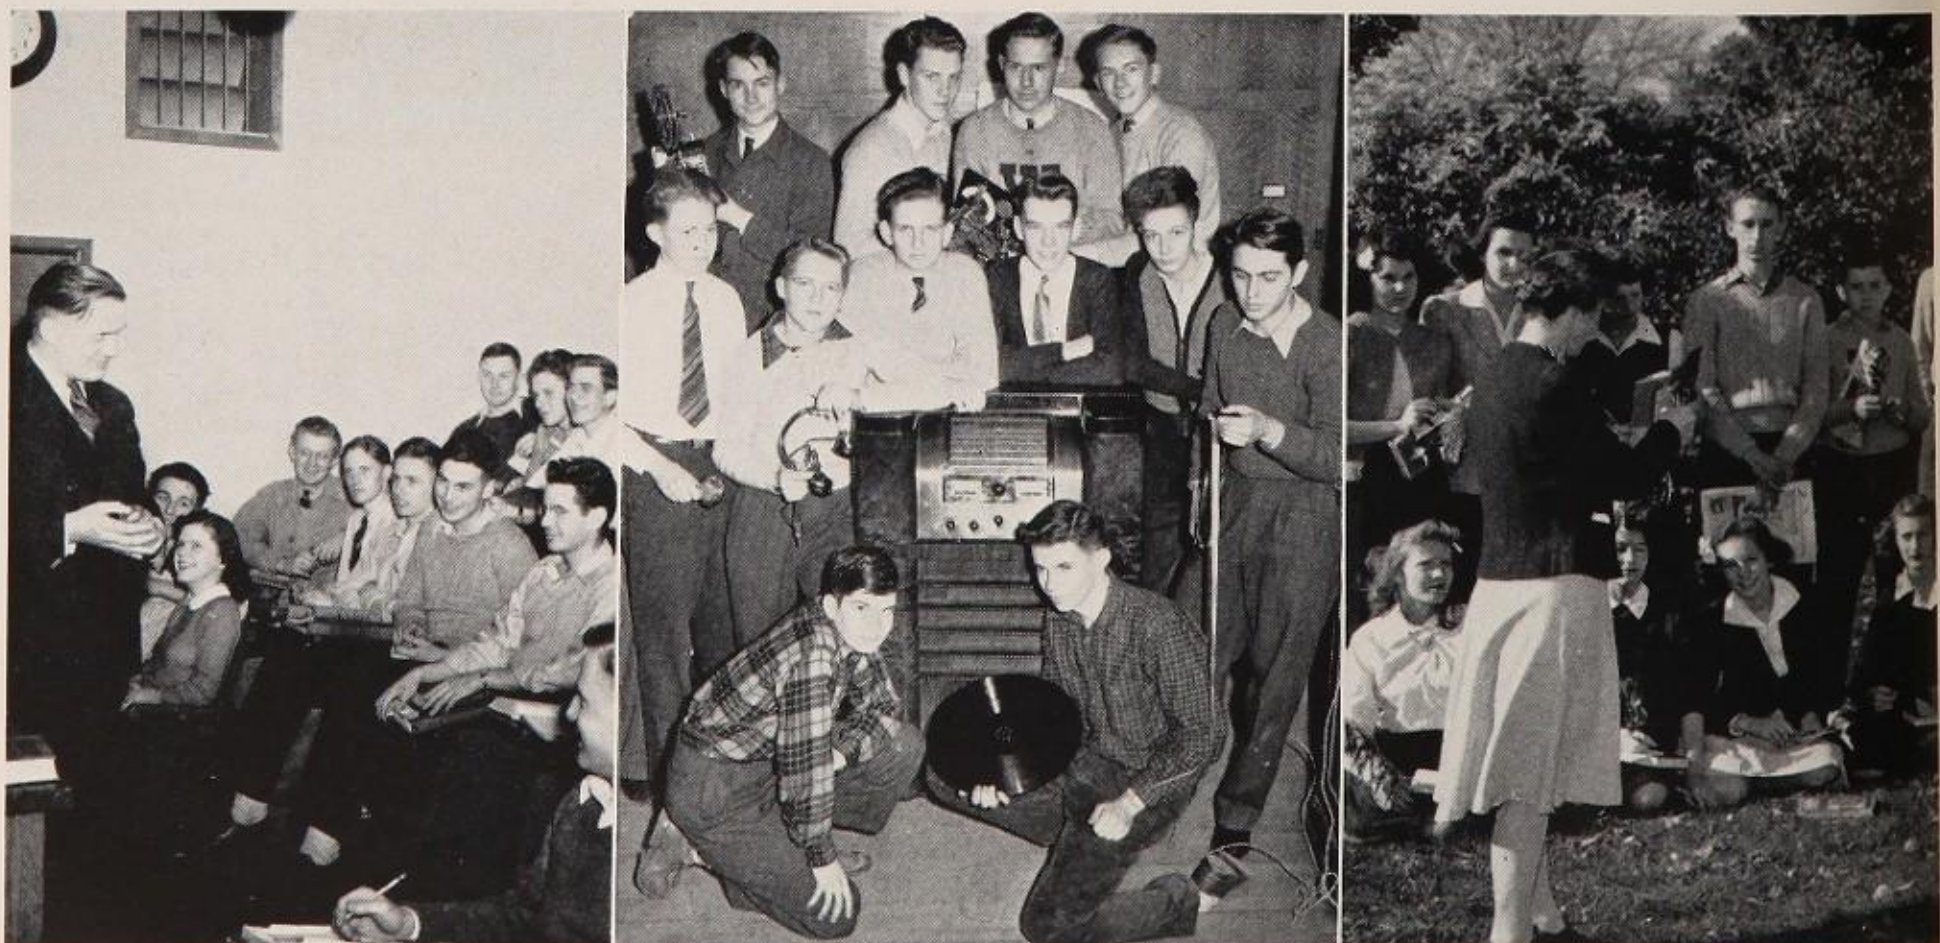

• Practically all students study a natural science while at Washburn. One year courses in biology and botany are offered. The latter, taught by Miss Lowry, teaches the students the fundamentals of plant life. The greenhouse is available for observations at all times. Biology, the science of all living things, is taught by Miss Goldsworthy, Mr. Roder, and Mr. Dillner. Beginning with the habits and actions of the smallest animal, the classes gradually reach the study of the more advanced man. This course tries to promote an interest in the out of doors, and teaches the student to take an interest in his personal health.

It is through experimental work in the chemistry classes that students make simple chemical discoveries and applications. Under the direction of Mr. Parsons, Mr. Slifer, and

Mr. Wells, it is hoped that laboratory work will prepare some students for chemical research. The classes study chemical elements that form common substances which are found in nature and used in home and industry. It is especially important that today's youth be properly prepared for defense work. Those familiar with the natural sciences are ever in demand at the present time.

Elective in the eleventh grade or beyond, physics is the science dealing with our physical surroundings. It includes the study of simple forms of machines, the nature of heat, light, sound, and electricity. Pupils carry on experiments in the laboratory. This course is taught by Mr. Parsons and Mr. Reque.

WINNING FITNESS AND SKILL

• Washburn offers to boys who are interested in advancing their knowledge two shop courses, mechanical drawing and woodwork.

The boys who take these courses learn how to work for accuracy with their hands as well as their minds. During the year they submit many of their projects to contests where they may win prizes. Recently some of the boys have been planning and building model airplanes for the purpose of aiding the government with its civilian defense program. Mr. Phillips Lee and Mr. Harold Henley head the department.

Gymnasium is required in all three years at Washburn. During the tenth grade the classes consist of regular gymnastics. In the eleventh and twelfth grades girls have an opportunity to join modern dancing, tap dancing, tumbling, or folk dancing classes. Miss Bowen, Miss Thurston, Mr. Larsen, and Mr. Ross teach this course.

En las clases de la señorita Tupper en S1 los alumnos aprenden proverbios y en S2 aprenden poemas cortos. En S3 se aprenden canciones españolas, como "Cielito Lindo" y "El Rancho Grande." Las clases en S4 aprenden los poemas como "La Rosa Blanca" y "Quien Sabe." Los títulos quieren decir "The White Rose" and "Who Knows."

FRANÇAIS

• Il faut étudier toujours la grammaire! Bien sur! Certainement! Mais dans les classes de français on fait aussi beaucoup d'autres choses. Par exemple on lit des contes, des romans, des journaux, des poèmes français, et en lisant on fait la connaissance des Français, de leur histoire et de leurs costumes; on joue aux jeux; on chante des chansons; et tous les jours on parle, un peu, le français. Pendant l'année scolaire quelques membres des classes vont à l'université voir un film ou une représentation. De jour en jour les étudiants aiment mieux cette langue si belle, si douce, si claire.

• Students at Washburn have an opportunity to become proficient in one or more foreign languages as the following courses are offered to them:

Latin courses include grammar and vocabulary, Caesar, Cicero, and Virgil. This language is helpful to those who plan to pursue professional careers, or to become students of the classics.

German may be studied for three years and is particularly valuable for students who plan to engage in scientific or technical work.

French students may continue their work in this subject for three years and acquire not only a reading knowledge, but ability to converse in the language as well. This course is found to be very profitable and enjoyable by those who take it.

Spanish is a two year course at present, but it is hoped that an additional year may be offered in the future. The language is most popular with young people at the present time.

THEY KNOW ALL THE ANGLES

• For those students who are interested in the laws and mysteries of higher mathematics, Washburn offers a complete course in all the important phases of this subject. Modern day occupations require the study of mathematics. At least two years' study are usually required for college entrance.

The prerequisite for the sophomore's study of geometry is either algebra or mathematics J5 and J6. Geometry deals with geometrical figures such as squares and triangles, and with the relationship of points, lines, angles, circles, and surfaces. It includes mathematical problems of perimeters, areas, sizes of angles, lengths of lines, and geometric proofs. Classes in this course are directed by Mr. Curtis R. Martin, Miss Helen J. Minty, Miss Docken, and Mr. Morris (before he left for the Army).

Elective in eleventh grade or beyond, advanced algebra is an advanced study of formulas and equations, similar to those found in elementary algebra.

Solid geometry may follow this course. It is similar to that of plane geometry, but it deals with solid figures such as cubes and spheres.

The highest course offered is trigonometry, which is an advanced form of mathematics, dealing with the relationships between the angles and the sides of triangles. Those entering the field of engineering use trigonometry, which is taught by Miss Ruth Olson and Mr. Harvey O. Jackson.

WELL, THE WAY WE FIGURE...

PREPARING FOR BUSINESS

• A two-year commercial course for those wishing to enter the business world is offered at Washburn. The majority of young women in business find secretarial work interesting. With shorthand and typing as tools, women may enter many fields of business as well as many professions. Perhaps some students will work as receptionists, where one must be a diplomat as well as a clerk. In the office practice course pupils learn filing. The requirements for a successful file clerk include keen observation, quick thinking, a good memory, and a mind for detail. A bookkeeper's work consists of balancing accounts, rendering statements, and recording transactions. This class is supervised by Mr. Arthur C. Sunde. Miss Nash is chairman of the commercial department. Other teachers are Miss Stevenson and Miss Thompson. Students must be able to type from 50-60 words per minute when they reach the advanced typing course. The one-semester typing course taught by Mrs. Ylvisaker is a favorite with Washburn seniors.

LISTEN CLOSELY!

DEAR MR. JONES:

MISS LUND, MRS. BROOKS, MISS ZOLLARS, AND MISS MONTMAN

The Office Staff

• The office is the busy center from which much of the activity of Washburn issues. Miss Helen Lund, Mrs. Olive Brooks, and their two assistants, aided by the Office Board, manage a vast amount of detail with the greatest efficiency.

Finances must be handled and supplies for the various departments must be secured by them. Routine office work, correspondence, and telephone calls must be carried on amidst countless interruptions.

More than seventeen hundred students must have their grades recorded. Absentee lists and tardiness records require attention. A daily bulletin must be issued.

Much praise must be accorded the office staff for the capable and cheerful assistance which they give to Washburn.
